LUNA 9 . . .

Britons Intercept Pictures

Moscow (AP)—A Soviet spacecraft beamed to earth Friday the first pictures ever taken from the surface of the moon. A British tracking station intercepted them and gave the world its first close-up of what the lunar surface is like.

"It would be perfectly satisfactory not only for the landing of men, but for heavy vehicles," said Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank Observatory in England. He thus was first out with the news future explorers of the moon have been waiting to hear.

Soviet scientists were still silent, except for expressions of pride in the soft landing feat, and withholding their pictures from public view.

While most of the rest of the world saw the pictures released from Jodrell Bank, ordinary Soviet citizens had to be content with mockups of "moon scenery" taken in a planetarium.

Secret In Moscow

The photographs taken on the moon by Luna 9 were kept secret in Moscow while officials and scientists studied them and decided what to show and tell the world.

In England Lovell said it was possible the Russians had deliberately intended the pictures to be picked up by Jodrell Bank because of "the high sensitivity of our telescope. The Russians appear to have made it possible in every way for us to receive these pictures without even asking us to do so," he said.

He added: "One of the most remarkable things is that the Russians have not yet published these photographs. I don't know the reason for that, but it is slightly strange in that they have taken the trouble to announce the frequency and transmitted on standard scanning lines."

Pumice Substance
Lovell said the pictures tended to confirm the view that the moon's surface is hard, sponge-like and of a pumice stone substance.

In Tucson, Ariz., Dr. Gerard Kuiper, chief U.S. experimenter on moon shots, said it was good to know the moon was not deep in dust.

"We don't have to worry about this any more," he said. Kuiper added, however, that the jagged lava-like field shown in the pictures is like nothing on earth, and "no one is going to walk very far on this."

Luna 9 made history's first soft landing on the moon Thursday night after a 3½-day flight.

Hammer It Home

Soviet news media hammered home Friday the success of Luna 9. They praised the landing instead of describing it. Scientists were quoted at length as saying the soft landing was an important step bringing Russia closer to a manned landing on the moon.

But the Russians made no attempt to boast that they had taken a lead over the United States in the space race. They quoted foreign news dispatches to this effect but did not make the claim themselves.

Luna 9 was at least the fifth Soviet attempt to make a soft landing on the moon. Three earlier tries crashed. One missed the moon.

Little Data

The first United States attempt at a soft landing is not expected before May, and several tries are believed necessary before succeeding, partly because the Russians released little data on the reasons for their earlier failures.

Several Soviet scientists pointed out that Luna 9 proved the moon has a surface hard enough to support a landing.

They said Luna 9 had disproved the theory that the whole lunar surface was a dust mass that would swallow up a satellite attempting to land there.

. . . Senator Possible Running Mate If Sorensen Seeks Governorship

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

State Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper is receiving prominent consideration as a possible Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor if Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen seeks the Democratic gubernatorial nod this year.

Sorensen's future plans, of course, must await Gov. Frank Morrison's decision on a possible re-election bid or candidacy for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Carl Curtis.

Sorensen said his decision will come sometime after that.

Rasmussen, contacted by telephone, confirmed that he has been approached about the possibility of being a candidate for lieutenant governor if Morrison seeks the Senate post and Sorensen files for governor.

"It all depends on what the governor does," Rasmussen noted.

"I have been encouraged to run for lieutenant governor if Phil runs for governor. I have the highest respect for Phil, and I certainly wouldn't object to running with him."

Rasmussen, 49, a farmer, has been a member of the Legislature since 1961. He is currently serving a four-year term, which would permit him to seek another elective office this year and still retain his legislative post if he lost the other race.

However, to add another to an "iffy" situation, his four-year term may depend on how a U.S. District Court panel reacts to the latest legislative reapportionment act scheduled for judicial review next Monday.

Rasmussen is a former Dodge County supervisor, and has been most closely identified in the Legislature as chairman of its Education Committee.

Governor To Announce Friday

Gov. Frank Morrison will announce his political intentions next Friday.

The governor Friday tentatively set a news conference for Feb. 11, 4 p.m., in his office for the long-awaited disclosure.

The two obvious choices for the 60-year-old Democrat are a fourth-term race for governor or a try for the U.S. Senate.

If Morrison runs for sena-

Companion Suits Filed Against Department Store

Companion suits totaling $80,000 were filed in Lancaster District Court Friday against Hovland-Swanson Co. in connection with injuries incurred by one of the plaintiffs when the settie on which she was sitting while a patron at the store collapsed.

Mrs. Adeline Harder and her husband, Edmund R. Harder, allege negligence on the part of the store in connection with the March 20, 1964, accident which caused Mrs. Harder to be "hurled to the floor," and suffer back injuries.

Mrs. Harder is seeking $60,000 in damages, while her husband is seeking $20,000 for hospital and medical bills resulting from her injuries and to compensate for extra help necessary in the home while Mrs. Harder was incapacitated.

The 818th Transportation Squadron at Lincoln Air Force Base measures its part of the base's deactivation program in pounds.

Since July 1, 1965, when "phase down" of Lincoln Air Force Base began earnestly, the packing and crating section of the 818th has handled 9.7 million pounds of equipment. In an average week, packing and crating processes a half-million pounds of base equipment earmarked for delivery to a score of other Air Force Bases or depots.

If the packing and crating section adopted a slogan, it might be something like, "No item too small or too large." They handle everything from nuts and bolts to multi-ton trucks. And the "handling" requires more than tagging the material and waving good-bye to it.

Delicate electronic equipment, for example, must be wrapped in a special silvered cover, placed in a cardboard container, cushioned with three-inch horse-hair matting and cased in a specially constructed wooden container.

Vehicles, like the aircraft de-icing truck, have to be inspected before being shipped out. Worn or weak parts have to be replaced. At its destination, the vehicle gets a second inspection before it is accepted.

. . . Cabinet Men Also Going To Hawaii Conference

Washington (AP)—President Johnson will fly to Honolulu Saturday for three days of Viet Nam strategy talks. Johnson will meet there with leaders of South Viet Nam—including Premier Nguyen Cao Ky—and with top Americans based in Saigon.

Johnson announced that he wants to review all American programs in Viet Nam with such figures as Ky, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam.

News Conference

The President, who disclosed his plans at an unannounced news conference in his office, said the sessions were not prompted by any military or diplomatic developments.

Asked if the meetings might lead to policy changes, Johnson said, "We are there to get briefings and to exchange viewpoints. I wouldn't want to anticipate getting off and making any changes one way or the other."

The President added that his purpose in making the 6,000-mile flight is not to draft a revision of policy but he added:

"I wouldn't say that we wouldn't learn some things from the meeting that would cause us to either improve the situation or strengthen it."

Cabinet Members

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will accompany Johnson, as will Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner.

Johnson said Freeman and McGee Bundy, presidential assistant for national security affairs, might fly on to Saigon after the conferences.

In addition to Premier Ky, South Viet Nam will be represented in Honolulu by its chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu. The White House said both men accepted invitations to meet with Johnson and will arrive in Honolulu with Lodge Sunday.

This will be the first presidential trip of this kind since

Harry S. Truman flew to Wake Island in the Pacific in October 1950 for conferences on the Korean War with the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then United Nations commander in Korea. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew to Korea in December 1952 after being elected president but before he had taken office.

Mansfield Applauds

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, whose report on Viet Nam touched off congressional debate on the issue, applauded Johnson for "taking another initiative" in dealing with the situation.

Johnson explained the presence of Freeman and Gardner on the travel roster by saying the United States wants to emphasize programs that are "in line with the very fine pronouncements that the prime minister has made concerning his desires in the field of education and health and agriculture."

The President said the United States wants to put the best planning and maximum effort into these "pacification programs," as he called them, and said this "will occupy a substantial part of the conference."

General, Admiral

Of course, we went on, he would "very thoroughly go into the military briefing" with Westmoreland and Adm. U.S. Grant Sharpe, American commander in the Pacific with headquarters at Honolulu.

In response to questions, he said neither members of Congress nor representatives of allied countries, apart from South Viet Nam, will participate in the sessions.

Asked if he plans to report to the nation upon his return, Johnson said, "We will report to you following these discussions and meetings everything that we can, and, through you, to the American people."

Asked about public reaction to his weekend decision to resume bombing of North Viet Nam after a 38-day pause, Johnson said polls indicate about 70% approved of the pause "and I think a very substantial per cent approved of ending it."

Marines Hit South Toward Joint Anvil

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Battalions of U.S. Marines struck south along a 20-mile stretch of Highway 1 Friday toward an allied anvil in the Bong Son sector, hoping to smash two Red regiments that have eluded combat patrols.

The anvil was formed by thousands of U.S. air cavalrymen, Vietnamese and Korean troops whose Operation Mash-er, which slashed communist ranks on coastal plains 300 miles northeast of Saigon, was resumed overnight after dwindling to a mopping up phase.

"All the objectives of the operation were reached, so the name has been changed to White Wing," a U.S. Army spokesman said.

Two More Lost

U.S. officials disclosed the loss of two more planes over communist North Viet Nam even as American air squadrons struck again at North Vietnamese transportation facilities. Three had been lost Monday when the bombing was resumed after a 37-day moratorium.

A U.S. Navy Skyhawk from the carrier Ranger vanished into cloud cover Tuesday. Its pilot is listed as missing.

Communist ground fire crippled a twin-jet Vigilante from the carrier Kitty Hawk Thursday and it plunged into Tonkin Gulf about 175 miles north of the border, crashing two miles offshore midway between Vinh and Thanh Hoa.

Rescue craft hunting the Vigilante's life rafts spotted them aboard two communist boats leaving the area. The two crewmen are listed as missing.

Chopper Falls

In the south, a Marine helicopter faltered after taking off from the Chu Lai beachhead and dropped into the sea about 200 yards offshore. One of the four crewmen was killed. The others escaped with minor injuries.

U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs resumed bridge bombing in the north. They struck at one six miles north of Vinh and another at Cam Dong, 60 miles southwest of Hanoi. The crews again used radar equipment to pick out targets through cloudy skies.

Navy jets from the Ranger and Kitty Hawk made 15 strikes Thursday in the vicinity of Vinh, striking through flak described as from light to heavy. The pilots said they destroyed one anti-aircraft site, damaged a railroad bridge 14 miles north of Vinh, cratered the approaches to other bridges and sank some junks and barges.

Washington (UPI)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield set in motion Friday the first of two moves to end the filibuster against the administration's right-to-work repeal bill.

Neither side held much hope that the moves would end in anything but defeat. Mansfield needs a two-thirds majority of those present and voting to get approval to end the 11-day-old filibuster.

Court Won't Reconsider Swiney Case

The State Supreme Court refused Friday to reconsider its decision upholding the conviction of a Columbus minister and his son on a child stealing charge.

The high court also declined to stay its mandate in the case pending an appeal by the defendants, the Rev. George D. Swiney and Oren Swiney, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The state court ordered that its mandate be delivered to the Madison District Court, which will issue the papers for commitment of the Swineys, who have been free on bond.

Washington (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hammered at U.S. Viet Nam policy Friday and edged toward a confrontation with the administration by seeking to question Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in public.

But McNamara has declined the invitation issued to him and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to appear before the committee at an open session, Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., announced. This set off some fireworks at the hearing where foreign aid administrator David E. Bell was grilled for hours on U.S. Asian policy—its aims, its costs in lives and dollars and whether it may explode into World War III.

Countering Confusion Fulbright, who says he is trying to dispel public confusion and apprehension about the Southeast Asian crisis, said McNamara and Wheeler "feel that it is not in the public interest to appear in a public session" because of security matters.

He said McNamara had offered to appear in executive session.

LBJ: Witness Can't Be Responsive In Public

President Johnson told a White House news conference that "when we are engaged with the enemy or when we are fighting communists," a government witness cannot be responsive at a public hearing.

"Or if he is fully responsive he endangers and places in jeopardy the lives of a good many of our men," Johnson said.

The President noted that it long has been the practice of such committees as Armed Services and Appropriations to hear military testimony in closed session and then release a censored transcript.

He expressed confidence that "something along that line" could be worked out with Fulbright's group.

Johnson said McNamara and Wheeler did not discuss the matter with him.

"Let's have it out with the secretary of defense," demanded Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., one of Capitol Hill's most persistent critics of American involvement in Viet Nam.

"The secretary of state and secretary of defense need to be brought before this committee to be examined on their record," said Morse.

Threatens Boycott

Morse indicated he would boycott any closed sessions and charged that "the people of the Pentagon and the State Department have already led the people down the road toward government by secrecy."

McNamara told newsmen, "I do not believe I can discuss military objectives in an open session. I did not refuse."

I explained the problem to the chairman and he understood. I am perfectly willing to testify at a closed session."

McNamara testified at a closed session of the House Armed Services Committee on the administration's request for $12.8 billion supplemental funds to finance the war in Viet Nam this year.

He said the renewed bombing of North Vietnamese supply lines, now in its fifth day, has already caused the Viet Cong to turn to night-time delivery of supplies and that this is hindering them greatly.

When newsmen asked Fulbright whether the Senate committee might insist that McNamara appear at an open session, the chairman said, "There is a possibility."

But he expressed belief the committee would be able "to work out something civilized... There's no war going on with the White House."

The committee has become a center of criticism of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

Nearly A Rerun Of Bout With Rusk

Friday's critical questioning of Bell was almost a rerun of the polite but gloves-off session the committee had with Secretary of State Dean Rusk Jan. 28.

And because of that session and because the hearing has developed the most public debate on Viet Nam, the room was crowded with cameras, spectators and newsmen.

The committee obtained Senate permission to hold the hearings while the Senate itself is locked in a filibuster over union shop legislation. Normally committee hearings are barred during Senate sessions.

The reason for the hearings is the administration's emergency request for $415 million in additional economic aid for this year, most of it funds for such other power-kegs as Thailand, Laos and the Dominican Republic.

"Our aid," Fulbright said, "has been a major factor in bringing about our present involvement."

Aid To Thailand, Laos 'Imperative'

Under questioning, Bell contended it is essential to continue aid to Thailand and Laos to bolster them against the possibility of a communist takeover.

Peking has already warned, he said, that 1966 is the year to launch a "war of liberation" in Thailand and indeed, he added, "it has already begun."

Bell pointed to acts of terrorism in northeast Thailand that he said were characteristic of guerrilla operations in Viet Nam. He also cited a January attack on a police post "by a gang from a jungle base."

Bell was questioned about everything from corruption and the black market in Saigon to allied shipping going into North Viet Nam ports.

Church And Bell Differ On Outlook

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, one of 16 senators who signed a letter last week asking President Johnson not to resume the bombing of North Viet Nam at that time, wondered about the outlook for success in Viet Nam. Is it as bleak as pictured by the Mansfield report?

Bell seemed to think not.

It is quite possible, Bell said, for American, South Vietnamese and other allied forces to clear and pacify large areas and then protect them from organized attacks.

But on the other hand, Bell added, it is "quite possible that the other side will not permit the moves to succeed."

The other side, as he put it, could choose to escalate and spread the war over wider areas in Asia by bringing in more troops—including Red Chinese—and more airpower.

Worst Single Plane Disaster Kills 133 In Fiery Bay Plunge

Tokyo (AP)—A Boeing 727 jet airliner carrying 133 Japanese plunged into Tokyo Bay Friday night in a pillar of fire.

An airline spokesman said hours later the wreckage showed no sign of survivors.

It doesn't make the worst disaster involving a single plane.

Flying in perfect weather, the plane was minutes away from Tokyo Airport when its pilot radioed he would land visually without instruments. Then the airliner vanished from radar screens.

Flames in Park Villagers along the shore and the pilot of another plane said they saw flames stab the darkness of the bay at the moment the All-Nippon Airways liner was due to land.

Fishermen and Japanese defense force boats began picking up bodies from the bay. Twelve hours after the crash they had recovered 24 bodies.

Some bodies were floating on the water while scores of others were in the crumpled fuselage that was hauled to the surface by giant grappling hooks. The number of bodies in the fuselage led to the belief that all aboard perished, an airline spokesman said.

Chitose Carnival

The plane carried 126 passengers and a crew of seven. Most passengers were returning from the annual winter carnival at Chitose, 600 miles north of Tokyo and point of origin for the flight.

Aviation's worst previous crash involved a Boeing 707. An Air France liner crashed June 3, 1962, in Paris killing 130. Before that the worst had been another Tokyo crash in 1953 of an Air Force C124 Globemaster that killed 129 U.S. servicemen.

The worst disaster was the death of 134 persons in the collision of two airliners over New York City Dec. 16, 1960.

The All-Nippon Airways disaster was the fourth involving a Boeing 727 in the past six months. The other three, all in the United States, took 140 lives.

To Keep Flying

Kabeita Okazaki, president of All-Nippon, said the line's other five Boeing 727s would continue to fly unless the Japanese civil aviation board grounds them.

In the early Saturday morning hours, red-eyed, he told reporters, "I'm still praying that there will be some survivors. I'm still hoping that there will be at least one or even two survivors. Then all will not have been lost."

In Washington, the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board offered the Japanese government technical assistance in looking into the crash. The Japanese authorities ordered an inquiry, and the transport ministry scheduled an initial hearing later Saturday.

Many of the passengers' relatives had been at the airport waiting for the plane. Others rushed there as word spread, over the Japanese television and radio stations, that the plane was missing.

Tax Study Group's Private Support To Be Anonymous

Gov. Frank Morrison said Friday any private funds used by his blue-ribbon tax study committee in making a report and recommendations on Nebraska's tax situation will be "anonymously donated."

Morrison said neither he nor the committee members will know the source of the donations so there can be "no suspicion or criticism" voiced on that score against the study.

The committee is scheduled to meet Feb. 21 with Morrison to begin its assignment "of analyzing the future fiscal needs of the state and recommending a comprehensive tax program for consideration of the governor and the 1967 Legislature."

"I guarantee I will make specific recommendations for a tax program to this Legislature (1967) as I have done at every previous session," Morrison said.

Morrison has called for the comprehensive tax study because of the "possibility, if not probability, of repeal by the voters in November of both the income tax law enacted by the last Legislature and the state property tax."

Morrison said he plans to name replacements soon for Bern Coulter, Bridgeport cattleman who recently resigned from the committee, and Dr. Richard Short, a Hastings educator who is leaving the state.

The governor has said $25,000 or $30,000 might be needed by the study committee in employing a coordinator and other research staff in developing the comprehensive report.

Klansman Pleads Fifth In HUAC's Liuzzo Quiz

Washington (UPI)—A witness described as a powerful Alabama Ku Klux Klansman pleaded the 5th Amendment Friday when confronted with the charge that he ordered the accused slayers of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo into Selma.

Robert S. Thomas, 37, listened impassively as an investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee attempted to link him with what one lawmaker called "one of the most brutal and notorious murders of the decade."

Mrs. Liuzzo, Detroit mother of four, was shot to death as she drove along a darkened highway outside of Selma. She was taking part in the celebrated voting rights drive then going on.

Investigation

Her death, and the subsequent arrest of klansmen who were charged with it, prompted President Johnson to call for a Congressional investigation of the Ku Klux Klan, HUAC, which was considering such an investigation at the time, complied.

Thomas, identified as the great titan of one of Alabama's "provinces," was the first witness as HUAC hearings moved into Alabama activities of the Klan.

Committee counsel Donald Appell termed Thomas "one of the most influential members of the United Klans of America in Alabama."

Ordered Death

Looking directly at Thomas, Appell asked if it were not true that he ordered Colie Leroy Wilkins, Gary Rowe, Eugene Thomas and W. O. Eaton to go to Selma on the night of March 25 on a "night-rider" mission. Thomas declined to answer.

Rowe, an FBI informer, testified in court that it was Thomas who told the klansmen to travel from the Birmingham area to Selma. He also testified that Wilkins fired the shotgun that killed Mrs. Liuzzo.

Wilkins' first state murder trial ended in a hung jury. In the second, he was acquitted. But he, Thomas and Eaton were convicted in a federal court of depriving Mrs. Liuzzo of her civil rights.

Thomas also invoked the 5th Amendment when asked whether he knew anything of another Alabama racial killing—the 1963 bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham. Four small Negro girls died in the explosion.

Homan Through Filing For Third District Congress

John Homan, a 67-year-old Cedar Rapids farmer, completed his filing with the secretary of state Friday as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Third District.

The seat is now held by Republican Rep. Dave Martin.

Homan was an unsuccessful legislative candidate in 1962 and 1964.

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A palm print from the kitchen of Jacques Mossler's apartment, and fingerprints from the white Chevrolet the state says was his killer's getaway car, were introduced Friday in the Mossler murder trial.

Thomas J. Spurlock, officer in charge of the Dade County Records and Identification Bureau, will take the witness stand Monday to identify the prints as those of Melvin Lane Powers.

The brawny, 29-year-old Powers is on trial with his aunt, Candace Mossler, 39, on charges that they plotted the killing of her wealthy husband which was carried out in the early morning of June 30, 1964.

A string of witnesses laid the groundwork Friday for testimony by which the state will try to show that Powers fractured Mossler's skull.

drove a knife 39 times into his body, then drove the white car to Miami Airport.

Dave Plowden, a fingerprint technician for the sheriff's department, said he lifted the palm print from a counter-top in the kitchen—a plastic surface that handyman Roscoe Brown said he scrubbed thoroughly a few hours before the killing.

Nine fingerprints lifted from the car in a parking lot at the airport were identified by Robert Worsham, another crime lab technician, who lifted them.

Author, Critic Lucius Beebe Dead At 63

San Mateo, Calif. (UPI)—Lucius Beebe, onetime high priest of Eastern elite society, author of books on railroad, poetry and the doings of the upper classes, dauntless devotee of fine food and wines, and outspoken newspaper columnist, died Friday. He was 63.

Beebe, a lifelong bachelor whose special delight was his privately owned railroad car, collapsed when he walked from the shower at his nearby Hillsborough home, according to Charles Clegg, his associate and collaborator on many books. He was dead on arrival at Mills Hospital here.

He was the author of about 35 books, including volumes on high society, travel and poetry. A dozen books dealt with railroading.

"All I want," he once said, "is the best of everything, and there's very little of that."

After a recent visit to New York, he characterized the city as "a charnel house in arrested motion, a necropolis of the living dead."

Critic Clifton Fadiman once said of Beebe, "he successfully evaded the 20th Century by the simple expedient of never emerging from the 19th... the terrible-tempered Beebe wears no man's choler but his own."

U.S. Judge Tosses Out Rights Act

Baton Rouge, La. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West Friday termed the 1965 Civil Rights Act "flagrantly violative of the Constitution" as he dismissed a Justice Department suit testing the voting intimidation section of the law.

The suit, the nation's first test of the section, sought an injunction against landowners in West Feliciana Parish county. The government charged the landowners had evicted Negro sharecroppers from tenant houses, had terminated sharecropping agreements or had charged rent on formerly rentfree houses occupied by Negroes who registered to vote.

Judge West set aside a temporary restraining order issued in December to prevent the landowners from evicting the tenants until a decision was reached.

He said that even if he is wrong in holding parts of the voting rights act unconstitutional, he said that he denied the injunction because "the plaintiff has simply failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence the allegations of its complaint."

The judge cited numerous U.S. Supreme Court decisions to show that the 15th Amendment was directed at actions of the United States or a state—not at action by the individual citizen.

Fulbright Committee Pounds Away At Policy

... EDGES TOWARD SHOWDOWN WITH LBJ

Washington (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hammered at U.S. Viet Nam policy Friday and edged toward a confrontation with the administration by seeking to question Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in public.

But McNamara has declined the invitation issued to him and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to appear before the committee at an open session, Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., announced.

Lowndes' Fees Soar

Hayneville, Ala. (AP)—If a Negro runs for sheriff in the May 3 Democratic primary in Lowndes County—where Negro voters have the balance of power—he must pay a $500 qualifying fee.

It doesn't apply to Negroes alone. White candidates have to put up the same amount to get their names on the ballot. And if they run for tax assessor or tax collector, the fee is the same.

The County Democratic Executive Committee has voted a 900% increase in qualifying fees for all county offices at stake in this year's elections—from $50 to $500 for sheriff, tax assessor and tax collector, and from $10 to $100 for the board of education.

Chairman Robert S. Dickson Jr., who disclosed the committee's decision, made no mention of the possibility that the county where two civil rights workers were slain last year may soon have Negro officials.

Party Needs Money

Instead, he said the Democrats were prompted by the fact that "we've never had a two-party system here before, but now we've got a lot of opposition and the party needs more money to combat it with." Fees paid by candidates go into the party treasury.

County GOP Chairman John Ellis of nearby Fort Deposit chuckled over the tenfold increase in Democratic fees.

"I'm glad to know," he said, "that they consider us tough this time."

Candidates Eyed

Ellis said the GOP may put up two candidates for the school board. In fact, he said, two of the three board members who come up for re-election have changed from Democrats to Republicans since their election four years ago. He said he is counting on them to seek re-election as Republicans.

A year ago, Lowndes County had no Negro voters, but the total now stands at approximately 2,200.

The poll list contains about 2,500 white names, but there are only about 1,900 white residents of voting age in the county.

Three Persons Lose Lives On Nebraska Roads

By The Associated Press

A crash on a curve north of Barneston Friday afternoon, a tractor death in northeast Nebraska, and a car-train accident near Hastings have taken the lives of three Nebraskans.

The victims:

Larry Lytle, 28, Wymore, George Donner, 38, Crofton, Mrs. Fanny Williams, 67, Franklin.

Lytle was killed when pinned under his car after he lost control on a curve three miles north of Barneston.

Lytle was employed by the Union Pacific Railroad and was the father of two preschool age children.

It was the second traffic death of the year in Gage County and came just about 24 hours after Mrs. Geraldine L. Guehrer of Beatrice was killed when she lost control of her car and it crashed into a ditch on the east edge of Beatrice.

Donner, a Crofton farmer, was fatally injured when his tractor overturned in a ditch about 1½ miles from his home which is seven miles southeast of Crofton.

Found By Neighbor

Donner was en route home from Crofton after having the tractor repaired when the accident occurred. A neighbor discovered the accident but Donner was dead when help arrived.

He is survived by his wife, 13 children, six brothers and his parents.

Fog: Aud Road

Mrs. Williams was fatally injured and two men seriously hurt in a midnight crash at a fog-shrouded railway crossing a mile west of Hastings.

Injured were her husband, Guy, 68, and her brother, Fred Jennings, 72, who was driving. Jennings also is from Franklin.

Their car was in collision with a line of boxcars being switched at the Garvey Elevator crossing.

In Omaha the name of Mrs. Rebecca Freeberger, 64, was added to the highway fatality list for 1965.

'65 Toll To 386

Mrs. Freeberger died Sunday of injuries suffered in a two car accident last Dec. 23. She had been hospitalized since the accident. Her doctor said she had suffered a broken leg in the accident and a blood clot had broken loose, traveling to her lungs and causing her heart to stop. This brings the 1965 toll to 386.

Prize Money Going Toward Trade School Scholarships

Ogallala (AP)—Ogallala's $1,000 prize money as Nebraska's "City of the Year" will go toward a permanent student loan fund for trade school scholarships for Ogallala area youths, it was announced here.

Members of the Community Betterment Committee, representing local civic organizations, approved the proposal suggested by a special local awards committee.

"Main purpose of the scholarship is to help local boys secure a trade school education and also to furnish more trained help for local industries," awards chairman C. C. Worden said.

Students receiving funds would sign a note bearing 3% interest and the loan would be repaid as soon as the student finished the course at a minimum repayment of $20 monthly.

"After he has finished the two-year trade school course," Worden explained, "he will be expected to take a position with one of the Ogallala industries if they are in need of help. However, if he cannot secure work in Ogallala he is at liberty to seek a position elsewhere."

Application has already been made to the Ogallala National High School Rodeo Association that $600 in scholarships be granted for boys or girls for vocational training.

The $600 figure matches $600 raised by Ogallala High School faculty members for academic scholarships.

Ogallala's Community Betterment Committee received $500 as winner of its population class in the statewide Community Betterment Contest and received an additional $500 as grand champion winner over all population categories.

New Unicameral Voting Machine To Be Discussed

A Richmond, Va., firm which manufactures government roll call and vote recording machines has offered to lease such a device for use in the Nebraska State Legislature for $7,500 per year.

The proposal by the International Roll Call Corp. will be discussed Monday at a meeting of the legislative council's executive board, according to Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point, chairman.

The new machine would instantly total the votes and publicly display the totals. The voting board presently in use does not provide a running total of votes cast.

Hasebroock and three other executive board members—Sens. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud and Elvin Adamson of Valentine—flew to the Richmond factory last month to view the machine.

Trio To See New Jersey State Hospital

A special three-member committee, authorized by the Legislature's Budget Committee, leaves Monday for New Jersey to study analytical procedures used in staffing mental hospitals there.

Members include Gordon Arnold, the Legislature's assistant fiscal analyst; Raymond J. Kanoff, assistant superintendent at Norfolk State Hospital, and Ken Williams of the Department of State Institutions.

The committee is expected to spend about two days at New Jersey's Marlboro State Hospital in studying staffing analysis procedures and conferring with officials.

The Budget Committee authorized the study during the 1965 session after disagreements resulted over what standards and procedures should be used in determining staffing patterns for Nebraska's mental hospitals.

A spokesman said committee findings from the New Jersey trip would be reported directly to the budget committee.

Wesleyan's Elder Art Gallery Given Permanent Work

The Nebraska Art Association Friday presented the first painting for the permanent collection at Elder Art Gallery in Nebraska Wesleyan's new auditorium-fine arts center.

Mrs. Thomas C. Woods Jr., president of the association, made the presentation to Prof. Vance D. Rogers and Prof. Maynard Whitney.

The work is titled "Mirror Image," an oil done by Richard Trickey, a member of the University of Nebraska art faculty.

Elder Art Gallery, named for Dr. Edith Dimmitt Elder, a 1908 graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan, will be dedicated Friday evening, Feb. 11.

Boys Must Find Jobs To Pay Fines In Bomb Scare Case

Fremont (AP)—Three 17-year-old boys were found guilty in Dodge County Court Friday of giving false information to an officer in connection with the bomb scare which evacuated 1,000 students from Fremont High School Jan. 13.

The boys did not make the original bomb threat but were accused of making a subsequent call in which police were told that the bomb was still in the building.

The three boys—David Hirsch, Jack Bennett and Roger Chisholm, entered pleas of innocent, but after a hearing County Judge Richard Morehouse found them guilty. Fined $150 Each

He ordered them to pay fines of $150 each from money they themselves earned, within three months and continued the hearing. He also remanded them to Dodge County Juvenile Counselor Richard Hohn for six months. He continued the hearing pending fulfillment of the punishment.

As the boys left Court Judge Morehouse had this advice for them: "If you're going out for a job look like men. I suggest you change your hair. Maybe you will look like a man if you get a haircut."

Three Persons Lose Lives On Nebraska Roads

By The Associated Press

A crash on a curve north of Barneston Friday afternoon, a tractor death in northeast Nebraska, and a car-train accident near Hastings have taken the lives of three Nebraskans.

The victims:

Larry Lytle, 28, Wymore, 13 children, six brothers and George Donner, 33, Crofton, Mrs. Fanny Williams, 67, Franklin.

Parents Urged To Take Lead In Curtailing Bad Book Sale

Omaha (P)—Parents must take the lead in curtailing the sale of unfit literature, Eugene Leahy, presiding judge of the Omaha Municipal Court, told the South Omaha Kiwanis Club.

Displaying a number of magazines, Judge Leahy suggested an economic boycott of agencies selling what he termed "filthy, rotten books and magazines."

The judge said a 1964 decision of the United States Supreme Court has allowed distribution and sale of almost any kind of literature and because of this it is up to the parents to act.

Judge Leahy said an economic boycott "has worked in the past." Only the parents can supervise their children in reading habits and places they frequent, the judge commented.

"Don't think for a moment there aren't teenage sex clubs in this town. They have them right in our high schools," Judge Leahy declared.

Dr. Rene Hlavak, Omaha school district assistant director of guidance, said later he supported Judge Leahy's premise in general.

"I'm sure we have young people in our high schools who are having drinking parties. And I'm sure there is the other type of party because there are girls showing evidence of it," he said.

Vaughan Phelps, District 66 superintendent, said he had no reports of sex parties in his district.

Still More Progress

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The administration of Mayor Dean Petersen is apt to shape up as one of the most significant in the history of Lincoln. This week, for instance, the city officially completed its purchase of the properties of Consumers Public Power District in this area. This ends the competition and duplication that have been a part of the Lincoln electric system for years.

Lincoln residents are not apt to see any immediate benefit from this consolidation of electric facilities because the city still must pay off the debt held by Consumers against the system.

Long-Range Savings

Also, it will take some extra funds to accomplish the total integration that is anticipated. But five years from now the people of Lincoln can look forward to improved service and perhaps lower rates. The merger of the two electric systems should produce savings that can be turned into rate reductions in the future. And the power problem on a statewide basis is a little more simplified with the Lincoln consolidation.

Also this week, the city completed the purchase of a 359-acre tract of land in northeast Lincoln for the total price of $325,000. This is at the rate of $905 an acre for land that will be used as a sanitary land fill or public dump. This doesn't compare in price or importance with the utility project but it is progress.

At first glance, it looks like a lot of money for a dump and it is, but this is not the whole question. The question is whether the land is worth what the city paid for it and it would seem that it is. Try to buy a piece of land that close to the city of Lincoln and you will find the price paid by the city for its tract to be quite reasonable.

The Union Pacific Railroad is paying from $550 to $2,200 an acre for land somewhat similarly located northwest of Lincoln. There are tracts in other areas around the outskirts of the city that are going for prices up to $3,500 an acre. The land fill tract is not considered prime land since it is low and flat, but it is well located. Also, the land fill operation will improve the topography of the land. The tract will provide the city a land fill site for at least another 15 years. At the end of that time, it is our guess that the land will have doubled in value or maybe more. But no one will find the land more valuable to them than the city. When finished with it for land fill purposes, the tract will become a park.

New Era Of Understanding

A long time ago, in 1846, a physician in Bath, Maine, came out with a thought so advanced for his time that he was severely ridiculed. His idea was that heavy drinkers be treated and rehabilitated in an institution, without resort to moral preachments and exhortations.

The good doctor was lambasted for his foresight and accused of encouraging immorality and vice by lessening the degree of personal responsibility. But just last month, the doctor was finally vindicated by the law. The U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a chronic alcoholic suffers from a sickness and cannot be prosecuted for public drunkenness.

And in Lincoln this week people read of the retirement of Rev. John Norman as director of the Nebraska Council on Alcoholism. Dr. Norman might be classed as a prohibitionist. At least, he is an advocate of total abstinence.

But Dr. Norman is not the fire-eating prohibitionist of old. He is a man of conviction and highly dedicated to his cause but he has never lost his appreciation of the whole matter of alcoholic drink.

Dr. Norman worked tirelessly to educate people on the evils of abusive consumption of alcohol and earned the respect of many people in the process. He has never been domineering nor intolerant of the views of others.

Such a man as Dr. Norman will be missed. He will be missed all the more as society works to better understand and deal with the problems of alcoholism. Conviction and tolerance such as Dr. Norman has are qualities needed in meeting any problem.

Bright For GI Bill

A new GI bill now seems rather sure of becoming a law.

This week the House Veterans committee approved its version of such a measure. Earlier the Senate passed a slightly more generous bill.

The House measure would grant educational or training allowances on the basis of one month of assistance for every month in service up to 36 months. It would aid the single veteran at the rate of $100 a month, the veteran with one dependent at $125 a month and the veteran with two or more dependents at $150 a month.

At present costs these allowances will afford no luxuries, but they are sufficient to permit a veteran to pursue his training or education.

The bill makes eligible all veterans from 1955 onward. It takes that date because that was when the predecessor GI law ceased to be operative. Some 3.5 million veterans would be nominally eligible.

Both Senate and House measures vary from the recommendation of the administration which desired to aid the veterans who had been at places of danger. But the broader version is better. The veteran was in a service which reserved the right to send him where needed. Even if it needed him in a place of relative safety it took away his time which is so valuable in the preparation of a young adult. There is no real point in distinguishing between service men in places of relative danger and relative safety. This is because a service man goes where he is ordered to go. All take the risk.

A GI law does move toward eliminating economic injustice to men who are taken out of civilian life by the armed forces. But the greater beneficiary is the nation, for in this high speed society in which we live, the unprepared man is an economic liability whereas the highly trained man is a national asset.

Dissent In A Democracy

From The Christian Science Monitor
The right to dissent—to express unpopular opinions, or to refuse to give assent to popular ones—is deeply ingrained in American tradition and American constitutional law. To uphold the rights of those espousing unpopular causes, at the same time that one disagrees with those causes, demands courage and conviction. Recently we have had two such instances.

The New Jersey state supreme court upheld the right of Black Muslim children to refuse to pledge allegiance to the American flag. The New Jersey opinion considered the Black Muslims a religion, as they claim to be, and so brought them under the constitutional protection afforded Jehovah's Witnesses in an earlier decision by the United States Supreme Court.

In the second instance, an American Legion post had planned to give a good government award to a Protestant minister, a Jewish rabbi, and a Roman Catholic cardinal. Following participation by the Jewish rabbi in a demonstration to protest American policy in Vietnam, the Legion post withdrew his previously announced award. Thereupon the Protestant minister declined to accept his award, saying that while he did not endorse the demonstration, he thought "Americans have a right to express themselves in an orderly manner."

The Roman Catholic recipient, Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, did accept, but in his acceptance speech he strongly defended the right to dissent. "The right to dissent," he told the veterans, "is among the most precious, and it must be preserved at whatever cost." He added: "On political and social and economic questions there will always be a variety of opinions in an open and free society. Let us hope it will ever be so."

U.S. On New Course In Arbitration

WASHINGTON — Communist and non-aligned members of the Security Council should have thumbed through the pages of history before voting against U.N. consideration of the Viet Nam war.

If so, they would have found a unique opportunity to put the United States on record on two points which this country has not accepted before. They are:

1. Sitting down at the same conference table with Red China under the auspices of the United Nations. Hitherto we have had private sessions at Warsaw between the Chinese and American ambassadors but only once have we participated in an international conference with the Red Chinese—at Geneva in 1954. President Johnson, however, was willing to meet with the Chinese at the U.N. which hitherto we have opposed.

2. Putting the United States in the position of accepting compulsory arbitration, hitherto never accepted by the United States.

Here are some pages in my own notebook of history which illustrate what opportunities the U.N. delegates are missing:

History page 1—In 1928, as a young newspaperman, I went down to Havana with President Calvin Coolidge, Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, and Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, then Chief Justice of the United States—all three reasonably important Republicans. At Havana they negotiated an arbitration treaty pledging the United States to go to an international court to settle trouble between any Pan American countries.

Senate Committees To Debate Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — The debate on Viet Nam has been moved from the colleges and one-sided propaganda meetings to its proper forum, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. By a surprisingly unanimous vote, the committee voted for open hearings at the odd hours imposed by the filibuster against labor legislation.

Senators see the hearings as an effort to establish valid two-way communication between President Johnson and his former colleagues. In an effort to enlarge the opportunities for all points of view, Chairman J. William Fulbright has under consideration bringing in the Armed Services and Atomic Energy Committees.

As the hearings unfold, it will be seen that the differences between the executive branch and Congress are less concerned with immediate moves in Viet Nam than the question of whether this country shall enforce a Pax Americana throughout the world. This is Secretary of State Dean Rusk's idea.

There is influential support for continued pursuit of the uncertain search for common ground among all nations, especially the nuclear-equipped great powers.

In domestic political terms, as much as in an international sense, the difference is really between a steady drift back to the cold war of the late '40s and '50s and the fading hope of the

When they got back to Washington, however, Republican sparks flew, and the U.S. Senate, then dominated by Republicans, killed this Pan American arbitration treaty.

History Page 2—In 1930, I accompanied Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to London for a Naval conference at which he proposed a consultative pact. It was a very mild proposal, merely pledging the United States to sit down and talk in case war threatened. There was no obligation to arbitrate.

Stimson was an elder statesman in the Republican party, with great prestige. But when his consultative pact proposal was made known in Washington, not only did the GOP president, Herbert Hoover, backtrack on him but the idea was promptly killed by the U.S. senate, still dominated by Republicans.

History Page 3—In 1931, after the Japanese invaded Manchuria, Secretary Stimson went to Geneva to try to persuade the League of Nations to step in and stop the Japanese warlords. The United States was not a member of the league, and Europe had deplored our refusal to join.

History Page 4—In 1946 I went to Paris to cover the efforts of Secretary of State Jimmy Byrnes in trying to negotiate a peace treaty ending World War II. He got nowhere. The headline trouble was the resistance of Soviet Russia. One unheadlined trouble was the unwillingness of the U.S. Senate to agree on arbitration or even litigation before the world court.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON
Only 34 days until the filing deadline for Nebraska's 1966 primary.

Holy Election Year! as they say on the Bat-tube.

Top race could be a Senate clash between Carl Curtis and Frank Morrison—but whether such a contest will come to pass is strictly up to the governor, whose decision may be revealed publicly next week.

For Nebraska's Democratic Party, such a race would offer its best prospect in three decades of capturing a U.S. Senate seat. The last Democrat to be elected, Edward R. Burke, won in 1934.

In those intervening 32 years, Democrats have won seven gubernatorial elections, including the last four in a row. Clearly—and the governor and his supporters cannot help but realize this—it's easier for a Democrat to be elected governor in Nebraska than it is to win a seat in the Senate.

A great historical obstacle also rears its head: No governor has ever been directly elected to the U.S. Senate in the state's history. Five have attempted to take the big step 1940.

Those are some of the hard facts which confront Frank Morrison as he takes one last long look at his political crossroads of 1966.

One road leads through uncharted territory past huge obstacles toward a possible seat in the nation's most exclusive club.

The other is a more familiar path, leading toward a possible history-cracking fourth term in the governor's office. It too contains obstacles, but they are not as many or as great for a Democratic candidate in Nebraska, or for an incumbent governor.

Morrison's first major political foe was a five-term Republican congressman named Carl Curtis. The year was 1948, and Curtis won his sixth House race by 19,000 votes.

Morrison's name has been on Nebraska's ballot each of the eight subsequent election years except one. The governor lost five major contests before he finally won in 1960. But he has since blossomed into a prolific vote-gatherer, building his initial 24,000-vote victory over John Cooper for the governorship in 1960 to a 115,000-ballot landslide in 1964, an unprecedented victory for a Democratic office-seeker in Nebraska.

Last time out, in 1960, Curtis won re-election by 107,000 votes, and that too qualifies as a legitimate landslide in Nebraska.

Curtis has won his last 20 election contests. In fact, he has only lost one, in 1934 when, as a Democrat, he failed to win re-election as county attorney at Minden. Since then, he's been unbeatable.

A 1966 election victory for the senator would give him the opportunity to stretch his congressional tenure to 34 years—within striking distance of the late Sen. George W. Norris' Nebraska record of 40 years of service in the Congress.

So, it's all there—all the tradition, the glamour, the conflict, the historic barriers and opportunities of a classic Senate contest.

But it's all up to the governor.

There are obstacles in another gubernatorial race,

The President's interest in doing something about the health of the nation is certainly a move in the right direction. While the average length of our lives has been lengthened considerably during the past century, people of today have a lesser chance of reaching the higher ages than was the case a hundred years ago.

The President's first act might well be to strengthen the pure food and drug administration. For instance, this agency should not allow our dried fruits to be sulphured. Also, salt is the cause of much illness.

Everyone knows that obesity is the cause of much sickness such as diabetes and heart attacks. And yet how too. The largest will be called Val Peterson or Nobby Tiemann. If he can catch Peterson in the primary with his early-start saturation campaign.

The tax issue will present itself in a gubernatorial campaign, but not in a Senate race. And there is always the possibility of the traditional erosion of support catching up with Morrison, although it certainly didn't show itself in his third-term race where you first expect to see it.

Peterson's last appearance on a statewide ballot was impressive. In 1960, he won election as a delegate to the Republican national convention, running second only to Sen. Roman Hruska. The senator gathered 110,757 votes while Peterson won 107,558. Peterson's total led fellow former governors Bob Crosby and Vic Anderson.

In ballot appearances since then, Peterson won a district seat on the University of Nebraska board of regents in 1962 and gained election as a Third District delegate to the GOP national convention in 1964, finishing second only to Curtis.

Peterson has not been involved in a partisan political contest since 1952.

On the other hand, if Tiemann should pull a major upset in the primary, he would enter the general election contest with considerable momentum going for him and a strong pull on party unity.

So, it isn't as if Frank Morrison could choose between cinch and risk.

Still, despite the obvious obstacles, Morrison would be the betting favorite in a gubernatorial scrap. In a Senate contest, he would be a close—and very dangerous—underdog, with a good chance of victory.

It's merely a degree of risks, one great, one not so great.

Still More Progress

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The administration of Mayor Dean Petersen is apt to shape up as one of the most significant in the history of Lincoln. This week, for instance, the city officially completed its purchase of the properties of Consumers Public Power District in this area. This ends the competition and duplication that have been a part of the Lincoln electric system for years.

Lincoln residents are not apt to see any immediate benefit from this consolidation of electric facilities because the city still must pay off the debt held by Consumers against the system.

Long-Range Savings

Also, it will take some extra funds to accomplish the total integration that is anticipated. But five years from now the people of Lincoln can look forward to improved service and perhaps lower rates. The merger of the two electric systems should produce savings that can be turned into rate reductions in the future. And the power problem on a statewide basis is a little more simplified with the Lincoln consolidation.

Also this week, the city completed the purchase of a 359-acre tract of land in northeast Lincoln for the total price of $325,000. This is at the rate of $905 an acre for land that will be used as a sanitary land fill or public dump. This doesn't compare in price or importance with the utility project but it is progress.

At first glance, it looks like a lot of money for a dump and it is, but this is not the whole question. The question is whether the land is worth what the city paid for it and it would seem that it is. Try to buy a piece of land that close to the city of Lincoln and you will find the price paid by the city for its tract to be quite reasonable.

★ The Union Pacific Railroad is paying from $550 to $2,200 an acre for land somewhat similarly located northwest of Lincoln. There are tracts in other areas around the outskirts of the city that are going for prices up to $3,500 an acre. The land fill tract is not considered prime land since it is low and flat, but it is well located. Also, the land fill operation will improve the topography of the land. The tract will provide the city a land fill site for at least another 15 years. At the end of that time, it is our guess that the land will have doubled in value or maybe more. But no one will find the land more valuable to them than the city. When finished with it for land fill purposes, the tract will become a park.

It will be a park serving the people of Lincoln as well as travelers along the Interstate. This will provide the city with parks along the two major entrances to Lincoln from the Interstate. Already, the city has acquired land south of Superior St. for a park along the 9th and 10th connection to the Interstate. In this park next summer will be the first real camping sites available to travelers. This camp will be within sight of the Interstate and situated in a grove of trees. It will be privately developed on a lease basis from the city. On adjoining land to the south, the city will be developing more park land that it has acquired as a part of its Interstate Park. Visitors to the city will be pleasantly impressed with Lincoln when exposed to this setting.

★ The land fill operation does present some difficulties, however. Some of the land fill area near Oak Lake Park has been found unsuitable for park development because of difficulty in growing anything on it. The fill material has not decomposed the way it was hoped and may not for many years.

Still, this land is currently under consideration as use for a NEBRASKA Land Days development. This would include an arena and seating for a rodeo and stage presentations. Perhaps in its Oak Lake area operations, the city has profited and will be able to develop its new land fill area so it is more usable when completed.

Primarily, such operations need a sufficient cover of earth to allow for the planting of grass and shrubs and a foundation firm enough to support light structures. The city could and should make more of an effort to meet this need in its newly acquired land fill area. Other parts of the city's park system also are advancing in their development. Thus, in parks and utilities Mayor Petersen is building a record for the present and future benefit of the people of Lincoln. And before he is finished, there will be other irons in the fire.

The city's fire-fighting operation is being improved with a new and centrally located main station at 19th and Q. Traffic remains as the major headache of city officials these days and it is likely to be tackled in earnest while Mayor Petersen is still in office. It cannot be said that Lincoln is standing still, despite the problems that remain in some areas of our life.

New Era Of Understanding

A long time ago, in 1846, a physician in Bath, Maine, came out with a thought so advanced for his time that he was severely ridiculed. His idea was that heavy drinkers be treated and rehabilitated in an institution, without resort to moral preachments and exhortations.

The good doctor was lambasted for his foresight and accused of encouraging immorality and vice by lessening the degree of personal responsibility. But just last month, the doctor was finally vindicated by the law. The U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a chronic alcoholic suffers from a sickness and cannot be prosecuted for public drunkenness.

And in Lincoln this week people read of the retirement of Rev. John Norman as director of the Nebraska Council on Alcoholism. Dr. Norman might be classed as a prohibitionist. At least, he is an advocate of total abstinence.

But Dr. Norman is not the fire-eating prohibitionist of old. He is a man of conviction and highly dedicated to his cause but he has never lost his appreciation of the whole matter of alcoholic drink.

Dr. Norman worked tirelessly to educate people on the evils of abusive consumption of alcohol and earned the respect of many people in the process. He has never been domineering nor intolerant of the views of others.

Such a man as Dr. Norman will be missed. He will be missed all the more as society works to better understand and deal with the problems of alcoholism. Conviction and tolerance such as Dr. Norman has are qualities needed in meeting any problem.

Bright For GI Bill

A new GI bill now seems rather sure of becoming a law.

This week the House Veterans committee approved its version of such a measure. Earlier the Senate passed a slightly more generous bill.

The House measure would grant educational or training allowances on the basis of one month of assistance for every month in service up to 36 months. It would aid the single veteran at the rate of $100 a month, the veteran with one dependent at $125 a month and the veteran with two or more dependents at $150 a month.

At present costs these allowances will afford no luxuries, but they are sufficient to permit a veteran to pursue his training or education.

The bill makes eligible all veterans from 1955 onward. It takes that date because that was when the predecessor GI law ceased to be operative. Some 3.5 million veterans would be nominally eligible.

Both Senate and House measures vary from the recommendation of the administration which desired to aid the veterans who had been at places of danger. But the broader version is better. The veteran was in a service which reserved the right to send him where needed. Even if it needed him in a place of relative safety it took away his time which is so valuable in the preparation of a young adult. There is no real point in distinguishing between service men in places of relative danger and relative safety. This is because a service man goes where he is ordered to go. All take the risk.

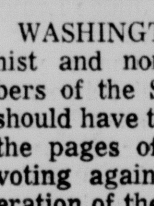

A GI law does move toward eliminating economic injustice to men who are taken out of civilian life by the armed forces. But the greater beneficiary is the nation, for in this high speed society in which we live, the unprepared man is an economic liability whereas the highly trained man is a national asset.

early '60s as symbolized by the test-ban treaty.

Ranking members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, like the President's senior foreign policy advisers, are men of conscience. They have privately agonized much about differing publicly with the President on international matters. But they feel they must no longer hide their unease about extending United States commitments in the world, the effectiveness of foreign aid, the policy sterility of the State Department, and the growing dominance of military rather than diplomatic considerations in the conduct of American foreign policy.

Differences of view between the executive branch and senior members of the committee have become too fundamental and the historical consequences too great to delay full-scale hearings indefinitely.

★ In any showdown, the President must inevitably prevail. But his sensitive political antenna must tell him that neither he nor his policies would come unscathed through a prolonged period of underground dissension.

The hitherto docile House Foreign Affairs Committee is also stirring uneasily. In relatively little noticed hearings, its Far East subcommittee, headed by Rep. Clement Zablocki, has been exploring United States policy toward Asia.

As no attempt was made to limit the salaries and fringe benefits of members of the 89th Congress, it is hypocrisy for them to mourn about the awfulness of government spending. How can any member of Congress expect private industry and its employees or public employees to go without a raise or be content to accept a 3.2 percent increase in wages and the cost of products?

In Nebraska and its political subdivisions, public officials have received an increase in salaries of more than 25 percent beginning January 1, 1967. But no provision was made to increase the wages of state and local public employees. And yet those employees are paying taxes to increase the pay of public officials. If state and local public employees are not to get an increase in wages, then the Unicameral should pass a bill repealing the salary increase for state and local public officials.

Many Regret Decision For Early Retirement

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q.—“I am 61 and earn $10,000 a year. But the work as a factory inspector is hard on my eyes and legs, and by noon I'm dragging myself around. I could retire now with a reduced pension of $2,800 a year for life. But if I hang on four more years till 65 my pension will be almost double this amount. What should I do?”

A.—If you actually hate your work and if a doctor feels you're impairing your eyes and health by continuing, you should retire now. But if you're just restless and if the strain on your eyes and legs is simple discomfort, I think it's worthwhile to stick with the job. Too many men find excuses to retire early, only to discover they were happier on the job.

Q.—“When I wed my wife 22 years ago her non-stop chatter amused me. But it has never abated and long ago became a big bore. When I tell her to shut up she says talking is as much a part of her life as breathing and eating. Don't you think I'm entitled to some peace and quiet now that I've reached 62?”

A.—I sure do — a gabby wife would get on my nerves. As lord of the manor, you should set aside an hour or two in the evening when you want complete silence. Too bad you don't wear a hearing aid. If you did you could turn it off when she starts talking and relax in blissful solitude.

Q.—“Your crazy suggestion that city folks cut expenses by moving to small towns. I did that and was quickly disillusioned. Nobody lives in villages but dreadful bores whose chief love is gossip. After six months I moved back to the city where my rent may be twice as great but my sanity isn't put to a test.”

A.—Small town life won't suit all city dwellers. But those who genuinely want freedom from noise, crime, polluted air and high rents will find it in smaller communities.

Q.—“I've always thought of myself as a good cook. But since retiring my husband has taken to eating out — usually by himself. He comes down in the morning and tells me not to fix anything—he'd rather hop in the car and go downtown. At lunch he's usually out somewhere. And three or four nights a week he gets home late and says he ate at a restaurant. How do you explain this?”

A.—Many retired men do this—simply because they crave to be out among people and rubbing elbows with others as they were when they were working. Restaurants are noisy, friendly places which thus serve as a sort of substitute for one's former place of work. If your husband had a part-time job he'd probably find more delight in taking his meals at home.

Q.—“I hear a lot of older people yakking about the past and saying they wish they could turn back the clock and be young again. But at 72 I'd hate to start all over. Do most elders want to do it all over again?”

A.—No. Most elders reflect your thinking. They look back on their lives with a fair amount of satisfaction, but wouldn't care to go around again. Many older people have compared it to getting home from a long, arduous cross-country trip by auto. You look back on the journey with considerable satisfaction, but wild horses couldn't get you to do a repeat.

CPPD, Gas Company Contract Valid—Court

The State Supreme Court ruled for the Consumers Public Power District Friday in a contract dispute between the district and the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Inc.

The high court declared that the contract was valid and binding on the Kansas-Nebraska firm.

Consumers signed an eight-year contract on July 28, 1961, with the North Central Gas Co. of Wyoming, covering Consumers' requirements for natural gas to be used for generating power at CPPD's Scottsbluff plant. The contract was effective Jan. 1, 1963.

On Aug. 14, 1962, the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. acquired control of the Wyoming firm and purchased new gas sources in Wyoming and constructed additional transmission and compression facilities.

The firm then asked the courts to declare that the Consumers contract was limited to the gas which could be produced from the sources and through the facilities controlled by North Central on July 28, 1961.

The Supreme Court said “changes in sources of supply and volume deliverable and the requirements of priority customers are all implicit” in the interruptible gas contract.

In affirming the York District Court ruling, it said the contract does not limit the gas service to CPPD to that volume which could be delivered from the sources of gas owned or under contract by North Central at the time the North Central-CPPD contract was signed.

In other rulings Friday the court:

—Dismissed on a 5-2 decision, a suit challenging the outcome of the 1962 race for Pawnee County clerk.

—The majority affirmed the Pawnee District Court by ruling there was no fact issue involved and the pleadings were sufficient to support the dismissal.

Judge Harry Spencer and Edward Carter dissented from the decision, claiming the majority “ignores the real issue presented to this court,” whether a person convicted of a felony is eligible to hold public office even if his civil rights had not been officially restored.

Thelma Stupp, who was defeated by incumbent B. P. Muschettes by 22 votes in the election, claimed the absentee and disabled voters' ballots were illegally cast.

Stupp had a 1,044 to 1,002 margin over Muschettes before the absentee and disabled voters' ballots were counted.

The district court dismissed Stupp's appeal on the grounds he was ineligible for the job since he had been convicted of a felony during the days of the depression.

—Affirmed the Douglas District Court dismissal of a suit brought by Leslie E. Adams challenging an Omaha City Council resolution passed in June 1964, declaring her home a public nuisance and ordering its destruction.

The Supreme Court said the plaintiff failed to file a transcript of the City Council proceedings when she filed the suit.

—Affirmed a Lancaster District Court decision granting $7,179 in damages to George and breach of warranty by Don Stevens of Murray.

NWU's Ideal Plainsman, Plainswoman Revealed

Judy Guida, Independence, Kan., and Lyman Anderson, Wausa, Friday were revealed as Ideal Plainsman and Ideal Plainswoman at Nebraska.

The honor, highest award granted by their fellow student, was bestowed this morning at the annual Senior Recognition Day.

They were presented trophies symbolic of the honor by Mona Miller, assistant editor of the campus yearbook, “The Plainsman,” which sponsors the award.

The two seniors were selected from a field of 12 candidates nominated by the social groups and Independents. Final selection was made by a vote of students.

Ideals represent seniors who best uphold the characteristics and traditions of Nebraska Wesleyan.

Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Guida, is president of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, Cardinal Key, national woman's honorary, and Theta Alpha Phi, a national theatrical honorary.

Lyman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delwyn C. Anderson. He is active in Theta Chi fraternity, band, choir and music educators national conference.

Anderson is a member of W-Club, varsity athletic association. He is vocal music major with a minor in instrumental music.

Journalist Relates Ride To Viet Nam Outpost With Lincoln Pilot

Journalist Ruth Knowles of New York, back from special assignments in South Viet Nam, visited in Lincoln Friday with the wife of a pilot who flew her to a Special Forces outpost in the war-torn country.

Her pilot, Capt. Van Hunn, whose wife and three children live at 1841 Broadmoore Drive, gave her a lift in an L-19 spotter plane shortly after returning from a medical mission of mercy.

Hunn flew a mother and her sick baby to a hospital for medical attention. Earlier that day, he had participated in an air strike against the enemy.

Mrs. Knowles has recalled her conversation with Hunn in 20 Nebraska speeches over the past five days.

"How did the air strike go," I asked him.

"I think we may have gotten 600 Viet Cong," he replied. "I was silent for awhile. Then I suggested war's eternal paradox, that he had first participated in a strike that may have killed 600 people, then spent two hours trying to save the life of one baby."

"That's not the way we want it," he replied. But that's the way it is."

Mrs. Knowles was at Mrs. Knowles' side in Lincoln Friday night when she told the story to a meeting at the First Presbyterian Church.

Capt. Hunn has been in Viet Nam for 10 months, and completes his tour in 57 days. Mrs. Knowles said. In those 10 months, he has received two South Vietnamese medals for gallantry and the U.S. Distinguished Flying Cross.

19% of State's Nonfarm Workers In Unions

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that union membership in Nebraska in 1964 amounted to 78,000 or 19.3% of the total nonagricultural work force.

The survey, prepared for the first time under the bureau's auspices, was made through the Chicago office of the Department of Labor.

Nordstrom Heads State Medicare Plan

J. R. Nordstrom, a U.S. Public Health Service advisor, has been named medicare administrator for Nebraska and will report for duty Feb. 21.

The appointment of Nordstrom to serve Nebraska cost-free on loan from the federal service was announced by Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, and Dr. J. M. Whitney of Kansas City, regional director of an emergency health and medical program.

A native of York, Neb., Nordstrom attended York College and the University of Nebraska, and has done graduate work at Michigan State and Michigan.

He will work in the State Health Department's new medicare division under the direction of Dr. Rogers and in cooperation with Dr. Harold Morgan, medical consultant.

Nordstrom recently has been on loan to the Missouri

State Department Explains Basis For U.S. Involvement In Viet Nam

Washington (AP)—The State Department said Friday that the United States is acting in Viet Nam in fulfillment of treaty obligations and under the right of collective self-defense recognized in the U.N. Charter.

This was the response of a State Department spokesman when asked for the legal basis for U.S. military action in Viet Nam.

The spokesman said South Viet Nam "is the victim of an armed attack from the north" and "the United States and a number of other countries have responded to South Viet Nam's request for assistance in meeting this aggression."

Self-Defense

"Together, we are engaged in collective self-defense," he said. "The right of self-defense, is basic under international law."

Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., have raised the question of the legal basis for U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Asked about this, White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers declined to discuss legalities and referred newsmen specifically to Leonard C. Meeker, State Department legal adviser.

After conferring with Meeker, Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey issued a statement on the department's assessment of the legal position, under international law.

Department

The department said the self-defense right is recognized in Article 51 of the U.N. Charter, which says: "Nothing in the present Charter shall impair the inherent right of an individual or collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a member of the U.N...."

The statement cited also the Southeast Asia Treaty of Article 4, Paragraph 1, which says:

"Each party recognizes that aggression by means of armed attack in any state or territory which the parties by unanimous agreement may hereafter designate, would endanger its own peace and safety, and agrees that it will in the event act to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes."

The United States is a party to the SEATO treaty, and Viet Nam, although not a party, was named by agreement of the parties as within the scope of Article 4.

"The United States considers that the armed attack on the Republic of Viet Nam has brought into play the obligations of the United States under Article 4," the department said.

Many Factors May Contribute To Sudden Drop In Grades

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Dear Dr. Nason:
The brilliance my son showed in grammar school seems to have disappeared in high school. He used to make high grades with little effort. He has a very fine memory. He has always been able to come up with an amazing number of details about past events. Suddenly, however, his grades have dropped to D's and F's except in English and history.

What can you suggest to help him?

Mrs. K.T., Houston, Tex.

Answer:
Usually there are many factors influencing a sudden drop in grades. On the surface, it appears that too much dependence on memorization may be a major cause of failure in your son's case.

Encourage your son to read for understanding and then organize and restate the material in his own words. He should relearn each idea as he listens in class. He should review each course regularly looking for major ideas. He should prepare each lesson as though he expected to be called upon to recite in class.

With this type of study procedure, his fine memory will again become an asset.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Our 12-year-old is both slow and fast. He is a very slow reader and has difficulty in comprehending and retaining what he reads. But he is hyperactive and has difficulty in settling down in school.

After a thorough examination, a doctor says there is nothing wrong with him other than "too much energy."

He was tested at a reading clinic, made high grades on the test and did not need to attend their remedial reading course.

Despite what they say, he gets very discouraged because he cannot read better. Have you any suggestions?

J.T., Bellaire, Tex.

Answer:

At this age a child must be told specifically and in detail what to do. Otherwise, he will think up activities of his own which usually prove to be somewhat disturbing.

Give your son a chance to work off some of his excess energy before school in the morning. Get him up in time to do some work about the house or, perhaps, let him take a run around the block.

He can speed up his reading with practice. Show him how to do this at home. Select a paragraph from one of his textbooks or from a newspaper. Have him read it and then state what he has learned. Then have him reread it several times, attempting to read it faster each time and still understand the meaning as he reads.

Dear Dr. Nason:

My husband is 25 years old. Although he is a high school graduate, he is a poor reader and speller. He works in a wonderful company as a lab technician and enjoys it very much.

Although he would like to further his education, he feels that he cannot attend college until he can learn to read and spell reasonably well.

Any advice or source of information on this subject will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. R., South Gate, Calif.

Answer:

Your husband, like many others, is avoiding college because he feels that he can not succeed. He can build up his reading and spelling proficiency by a simple exercise.

Each day, he should read a short paragraph in a newspaper, lay it aside and write a sentence or two stating the ideas in his own words. He should then locate the misspelled words either through the use of a dictionary or a check by another person.

He should sound out these words; see in his mind how they are spelled as he hears them. Then write and rewrite them several times paying particular attention to the spelling of each word as he writes it.

Meet Star Carrier Robert Hellweg

Artist, sportsman, businessman and future politician—all these words can be used to describe Robert Hellweg, a Lincoln Star carrier-salesman.

As an artist, 15-year-old Robert has won one first and two third places at the last Nebraska State Fair and placed first in the State Art Contest, sponsored by the Nebraska Junior Women's Club.

In sports, the young Lincolnite divides his time between tennis, golf and basketball.

As a businessman, Robert can point to a reputation for excellent service as a paperboy, a growing route, a healthy profit each four-week period and an increasing knowledge of practical business methods.

His political plans will have to wait until Robert achieves his more immediate goals

State Phone Industry Study Given Governor Morrison

Representatives of the Nebraska Telephone Industry presented Friday a preliminary study for a state government communications system to Gov. Frank Morrison.

The report maintains the industry could more economically and efficiently supply a state-wide system utilizing microwave communications than a state owned and operated system being proposed.

Morrison said the industry's report will be presented Feb. 14 in detail to the Governor's State Government Consolidated Communications Committee.

This committee already has under consideration a study for a state government communications system made by its consultant, John P. Heffelfinger of Kansas City.

Too Expensive

The telephone industry report contends the state-owned microwave network would be too expensive, would duplicate existing facilities of the state's 79 telephone companies, would eliminate flexibility in managing the state's communications and is not needed now.

The report agreed with the governor's study committee that a depth study resulting

Adult Music Program Problems Are Probed

A symposium probing the problems of an adult music program in a small community and an example of such a program which has been conducted for the last five years by the University of Nebraska is being presented this weekend at the Nebraska Center.

Dr. Louis C. Trzcinski, associate professor music at UNL, is directing the two conferences.

More than 35 leaders in music programs are expected to attend the regional symposium on Music in Adult and Extension Education. Participants will present papers, taped lectures and panel discussions of some problems of continuing music education and formulate recommendations for a national symposium.

Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Missouri, Iowa, and Minnesota are included in the region.

Preliminary Draft

Dr. Addison Alspach of the University of Minnesota, wrote in a preliminary draft of his remarks that a total community program centered around the school system has proven to be "an extraordinary solution for delinquency, integration, ignorance, civic disinterest and entertainment."

The federal government "didn't have to grab power," Alspach is expected to tell the symposium. "When states do not have either capacity or will to render needed public services, people are going to turn to an arm of the government which can and will perform them."

However, the Minnesotan also wrote in his draft that "if one must choose between federal money and that of industry, let him consider that the strings attached by distant bureaus are so unfitted to a specific instrument that a fine melody is usually impossible, even ordinary harmonies likely out of tune."

Not Educational

Furthermore, he stated, "many of the procedures in progress (in a program for adults) appear not primarily educational." It is assumed that after a person leaves school he is able and willing to care for himself.

"Does the problem lie there?" Alspach asked.

Another paper to be presented which studies a ration-

Local Man Gets Three Year Term On Assault Count

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Friday sentenced a Lincoln man to three years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a charge of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury.

Larry Chris Nussbaum, 22, of 1720 No. 31st, had pleaded guilty Jan. 14 to the charge which had been amended from assault with intent to rape in connection with a Dec. 11, 1965, incident, involving a 14-year-old Lincoln girl.

Seven Clubs Lose Gambling Devices

Beatrice — Seven private clubs in Gage County had removed Friday all electronic slot machines, punch boards and other "gambling devices."

The devices were removed on order of Gage County Atty. Arnold Wullschlegel. There are five private clubs in Beatrice, one in Wymore and one in Odell.

AEC Rejects Bid To Open Hallam Plant

Washington — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday it has rejected a proposal to restore operations of a shut-down nuclear reactor in Nebraska.

The industry estimated the cost of a private microwave system (such as envisioned in the Heffelfinger report) at $2.4 million per year ($12 million capital investment) plus an unknown but substantial cost for local connections.

No Investment

The industry-proposed Nebraska Communications System (NCS) would cost $411,000 per year, including cost of local connections, and the state would have no capital investment to make.

The NCS would utilize local telephone connections and dedicate needed microwave channels to the state government.

The report said the net cost of the proposed system, carrying an estimated monthly charge of $34,250, would be further reduced by a $4,600 reduction in other telephone billings and by federal participation in civil defense aspects of the system.

Morrison reserved comment on the report until it can be fully studied by his communications committee.

"I'm interested in a full study of all possible systems and how they might most economically and effectively serve the communication need of the state," he said.

Smith had pleaded guilty Jan. 12 to breaking and entering the Socony Vacuum Oil Co. Inc. at 3945 Randolph Dec. 29, 1958.

Three other charges of burglary and an auto theft charge filed in connection with one of the burglaries, each of which took place in Dec., 1958, were dismissed.

LBJ OKs Sending India 3 Million Tons In Grain

Washington — President Johnson authorized Friday emergency shipments of three million tons of grain to drought-stricken India.

Johnson told a news conference that two million tons of wheat and one million tons of maize will be shipped to India as soon as possible.

Johnson's announcement followed a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman on the Indian food crisis and other agricultural problems.

Freeman said afterward that a task force of experts which recently returned from India estimated that India could handle and distribute about one million tons of grain a month.

On this basis, Friday's allocation could be shipped and distributed in something like three months.

Johnson stressed that he acted in the face of what he described as "a very serious situation" in India.

Johnson said he plans to see India's new prime minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, in Washington at her convenience to discuss that country's additional needs for grain to tide it over during the present crisis.

Nelson Is Low Bidder On Library Remodeling

Dwight Nelson Construction Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder Friday to remodel the South Branch Library at 27th and South.

The Nelson bid was $11,000. Out of a total of nine bidders, the Walter J. Broer Construction Co. submitted the next low bid at $11,895.

The highest bid was $19,209. City officials said they were pleased with the low bid, $15,000 had been included in the city budget for the library remodeling.

Smith Named West Trail Director

J. Gree Smith, assistant chief of the Nebraska Game Commission's information and tourism division in Lincoln, was selected Friday to become full-time executive director of the Old West Trail Foundation, with headquarters in Lincoln.

Smith was chosen by foundation leaders over O.J. (Jim) Smith of Lincoln and Keith D. Anderson of Grand Forks, N. D. The three were finalists among 22 applicants for the $1,000 a year position.

The non-profit foundation was created to induce tourism on a highway route through Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana, and call attention to tourist attractions along the route.

Smith, 37, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Wyoming. He is a former managing editor of Nebraska Magazine and former editor of Outdoor America and Wyoming wildlife publications.

Smith told foundation directors that the American public "has been in love with the West for years." Just the name, "Old West Trail," is "worth a million dollars," he said.

In Nebraska, the trail follows U.S. Highways 83, 136, 34, 30 and 26 and leads to such attractions as Ponca and Chadron State Parks, Gavins Point Dam, Fort Robinson, Chimney Rock, Lake McConaughy, Fort Kearney, Scotts Bluff National Monument, Pony Express Station at Gothenburg and Indian reservations.

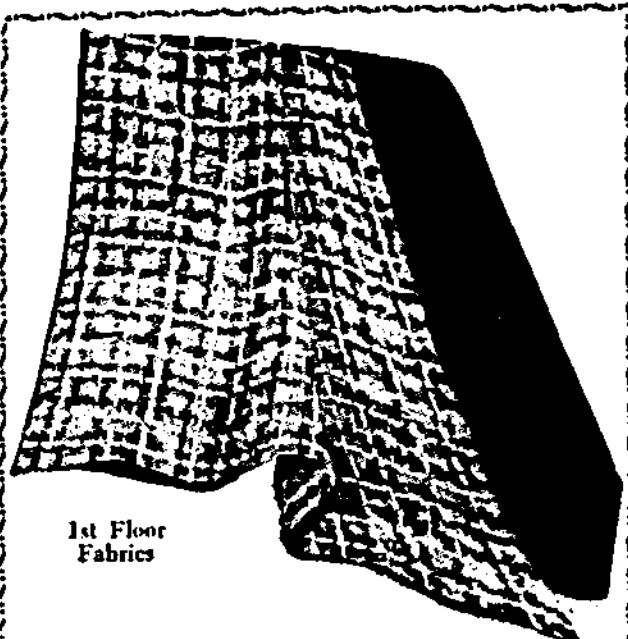

Foundation directors deferred action on a scale of fees to be charged for memberships, pending recommendations from the executive director.

Funds on hand from contributions received while the foundation has been in formative stages presently total $9,632.

Smith Named West Trail Director

J. Grec Smith, assistant chief of the Nebraska Game Commission's information and tourism division in Lincoln, was selected Friday to become full-time executive director of the Old West Trail Foundation, with headquarters in Lincoln.

Smith was chosen by foundation leaders over O.J. (Jim) Sartin of Lincoln and Keith E. Anderson of Grand Forks, N.D. The three were finalists among 22 applicants for the $12,000 a year position.

The non-profit foundation was created to induce tourism on a highway route through Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana, and call attention to tourist attractions along the route.

Smith, 37, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Wyoming. He is a former managing editor of Nebraska-Land Magazine and former editor of Outdoor America and Wyoming wildlife publications.

Smith told foundation directors that the American public "has been in love with the West for years." Just the name, "Old West Trail," is "worth a million dollars," he said.

In Nebraska, the trail follows U.S. Highways 83, 136, 34, 30 and 26 and leads to such attractions as Ponca and Chadron State Parks, Gavins Point Dam, Fort Robinson, Chimney Rock, Lake McConaughy, Fort Kearney, Scotts Bluff National Monument, Pony Express Station at Goshute and Indian reservations.

Foundation directors deferred action on a scale of fees to be charged for memberships, pending recommendations from the executive director.

Funds on hand from contributions received while the foundation has been in formative stages presently total $9,632.

No Place For Conflict
Washington (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss said the GOP has no place for anyone provoking racial, religious or class conflicts.

NEWS

of the suburban areas

A more apt winter-time version of the "happiness is a warm puppy" book would be "warmness is a warm puppy." Suburban residents are filling in the rest of the sentence this season when they find that warmness is a morning coffee. Warmness is a fire-side party, and warmness is that evening of bridge.

Perhaps for today's newsmakers warmness could be an unexpected mid-winter holiday, and most of all warmness is a new baby brother.

EASTBOROUGH

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Erlewine were host and hostess Monday evening when they entertained Mrs. Erlewine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Manning. The overnight guests returned home to Central City on Tuesday.

Arranging for their Feb. 21 transfer to South Bend, Ind., are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nugteren and their three daughters, Leisa Marie, Lori Lee, and Amy Jo. The Nugterens are natives of South Dakota and have resided in Lincoln for the past five years.

Hostessing a party Jan. 25 for a bride-to-be was Mrs. Melvin L. Hesseheimer. During the get-together the hostess and 24 feminine guests held a miscellaneous shower for Miss Mary Elizabeth Wright who will become the bride of Michael Vette on Saturday, Feb. 5, at the Zion Congregational Church.

Hostessing a bridge eightsome at her home next Wednesday will be Mrs. William E. Dolezal. Valentine scenes will decorate the two tables and players will include Mrs. Joseph Rezac, Mrs. Belle Keitger, Mrs. Lawrence Graham, Miss Donna Sue Wedberg, Mrs. Anne Kryger, Mrs. Lawrence Barry, and Mrs. Francis Lempka.

MEADOW LANE

Entertaining last Saturday evening in honor of two former Lincoln residents were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kitzell. Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Geis who, until recently, were misplaced Nebraskans in the state of California. The two are now renewing old friendships as they return to Nebraska and to make their home in Beaver Crossing.

Old friends at the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Logan, formerly of Lincoln, but now residing in Ralston; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walls, and Mr. and Mrs. John Revolinski.

Coffees seem to be popular during the winter season, and Tuesday morning Mrs. John Siefkes was hostess at one of these friendly events. Her guests included Mrs. Lawrence Flood, Mrs. Jim Drew, Mrs. William Colville, Mrs. Herman Schultz, Mrs. Donald Wright, and Mrs. Lou Walls.

Six suburban couples will be spending this weekend at Camp Kitaki, a retreat sponsored by the First Covenant Church. Members are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reimer, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kardell, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stanley.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

Although cold weather usually brings a freezing snowfall, this Jan. 22 brought a unseasonable warmness to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Mertlik. That Saturday young Scott Quinn made his first appearance.

Welcoming the newcomer were Scott's older brother, Lance, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Finley. Greetings also came from Fresno, Calif., and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Mertlik.

DAR Delegates Named

The members of Deborah Avery Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, elected delegates to the state conference at their February meeting, held Friday at the Hotel Cornhusker.

Representing the chapter at the 64th state conference, to be held in Omaha, March 9 to 11, will be chapter regents, Mrs. W. E. Oxley, Mrs. O. E. Kingery, Mrs. B. C. McLean, Mrs. Nellie H. Knight, Mrs. Harold T. Hermann and Mrs. Floyd Ush. Alternates will include Mrs. William M. Folger, Mrs. Boyd M. Raynor, Mrs. Gerald Rosenberger, Mrs. Kenneth Lawson, Mrs. L. D. Arnot, Mrs. Fred N. Wells, Mrs. Samuel S. Faires, Mrs. Levi Gay, Mrs. Joseph H. Claybaugh, Mrs. Carl J. Olson, Mrs. Philip E. Hall and Miss Irma Jean Croft.

Chapter delegates to the 75th Continental Congress in Washington, D.C., April 11 to 22, will be Mrs. Oxley, Mrs. Kingery, Mrs. Raynor and Dr. Johanna F. Ogden. Alternates will be Mrs. C. E. Edmund, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. William Deneke.

THE TALK

around the town

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dale.

The communiques from the talcum powder set involve two future beau brumels—a very young Mr. MacLean, and Thomas O. Haley, Jr.

The word from Munich, Germany is that Lt. and Mrs. Michael MacLean became the parents of a Phi Kappa Psi legacy on Wednesday, Feb. 2, and as yet no one seems quite sure of the baby's name. We can tell you, however, that his mother is the former Pat Mullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Mullen of Omaha—and Kappa Alpha Theta at Nebraska. You probably have guessed that Mr. and Mrs. James MacLean are the paternal grandparents.

Mr. Healey, Jr. put in an appearance on Saturday, Jan. 22, at Lincoln General Hospital. This young man, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Healey, has numerous ardent admirers—his brothers, John and James—his sister, Ann—and his dotting grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Haley, Jr.

Square Dances

The welcome mat is out to all square dancers in the area for the annual Square Dance Jamboree, Sunday afternoon, at the Lincoln Air Force Base Service Club.

Sponsored each year by the members of the Hi-Flyers Club, composed of a select personnel, this no doubt will be the last year for the Jamboree.

The dance is free and will be held from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock with Bill Reiley as master of ceremonies. Refreshments will be served.

The 10th annual Valentine Square Dance, sponsored by the Swing 'em In Gingham Club, will be held Sunday evening, Feb. 13, at the Antelope Park pavilion. Bill Speidel and Ken McCartney will be callers for the dance, to begin at 8 o'clock.

A special program of entertainment has been planned by the sponsoring club.

Count the dawn lost that doesn't bring a variety of news—and Saturday's dawn was far from lost. First there is an announcement that will be of particular interest—it has to do with a marriage—Then we have news of a Cabaret, of a Madri Gras party, and the nursery set also enters the news picture.

Both town and campus circles will have particular interest in the announcement made this morning by Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Weber of the marriage of their daughter, Katherine, to Eldon Davis Frank, Jr., son of Mrs. Eldon Davis Frank, and the late Mr. Frank.

The bride is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Frank also is a senior at the University of Nebraska and his fraternity is Phi Kappa Psi.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank are residing at 1527 Washington St.

Feb. 17 may be just another Thursday to some people, but to various groups around town it means a trip to Omaha and the 'Cabaret' which will be presented by the Omaha Junior League at Peony Park.

Roll call on each and every one isn't quite ready at this moment, but we do know that Mr. and Mrs. Milton Petersen, Jr. (Shirley Woods) of Omaha have invited guests from Lincoln for the performance—Included in the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Van Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Faulkner, F. Pace Woods, II, Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer and Mr. and Mrs. A. Craig O'Brien.

It may interest you to know that the director of the Omaha League's production is Brooks Russell of New York City. Mr. Russell isn't exactly a stranger to Lincoln since, back in 1958, he directed the Lincoln Junior League's first Follies. A few years later he was in town again to direct the huge Centennial production at Pershing Auditorium.

All of this leads up to the fact that Mr. Russell pays his third visit to Lincoln this weekend—as a guest at the Monday Night Club's dinner dance this evening.

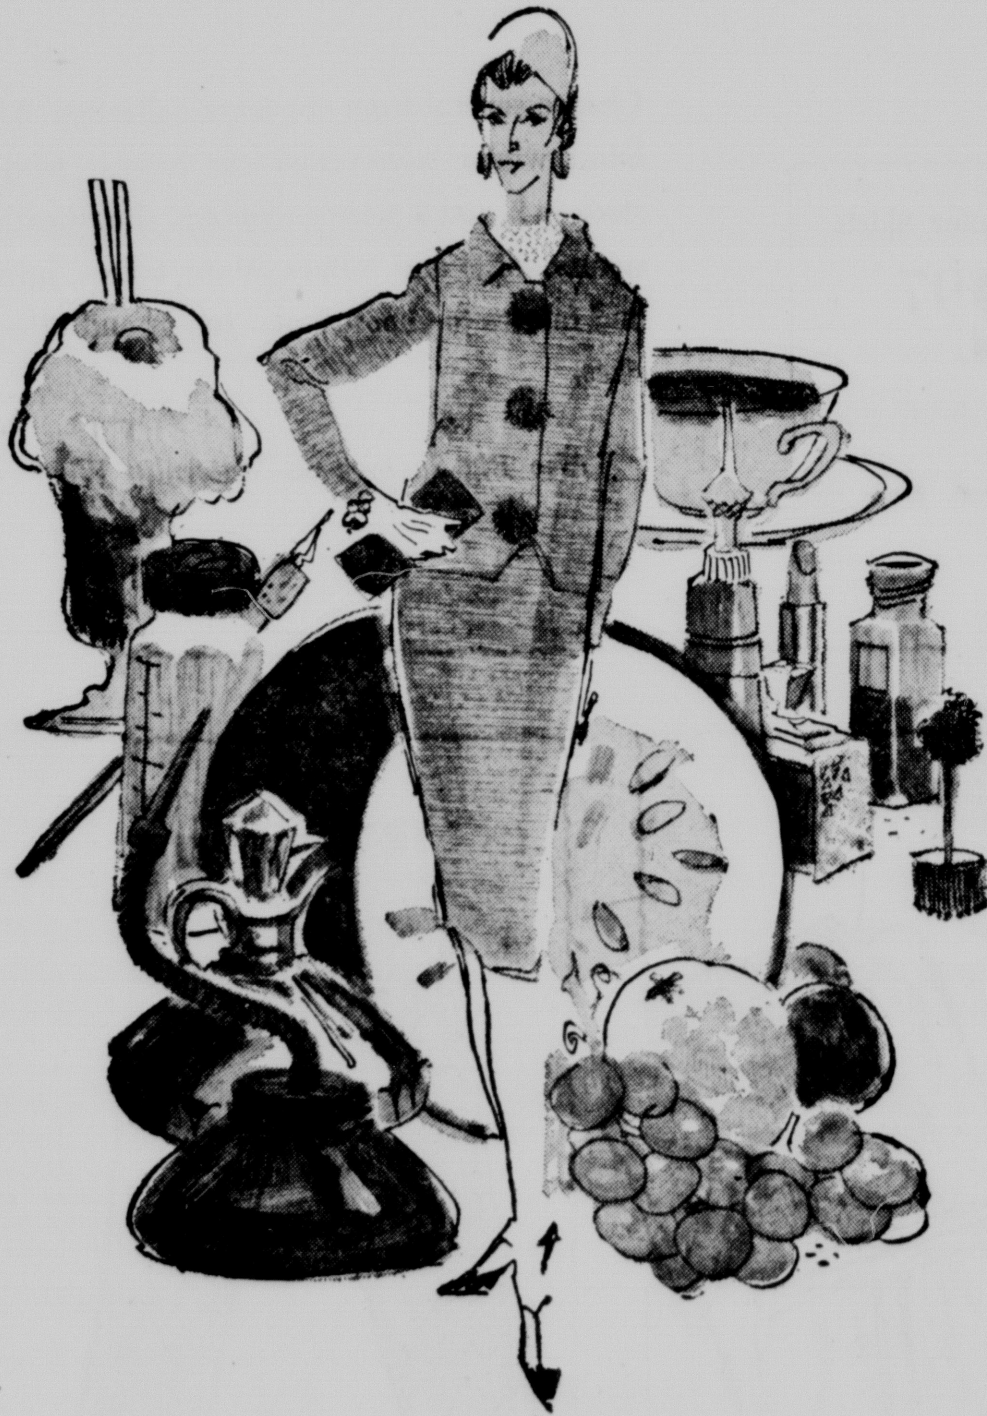

Tonight is Mardis Gras night for the members of the Terpsichorean Dancing Club. The party—a dinner dance at Hotel Lincoln—is planned for 6:30 o'clock.

In charge of the party is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. John Capron, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Walt Meisinger, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rhoden and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reger.

Meeting Friday evening were the eight candidates for the Beta Sigma Phi Queen, who will be introduced to the sorority members and their escorts at the group's annual Valentine Dance, to be held Saturday evening, Feb. 12, at the Black Coach Supper Club.

The Queen contestants, each selected by her own chapter, met with contest judges, Mrs. Nancy Childs, Thomas Gorham and Bob Johnson, who will choose the queen on the basis of beauty, charm and personality.

The candidates and their chapters are Jeanne Patten, Beta; Mary Rapetti, Zeta; Carol Swanson, Kappa; Jennie Layton, Lambda; Phyllis Nelson, Xi Alpha Delta; Marilyn Wendt, Phi Beta; Melody Arnison, Phi Gamma; and Pat Ikerd, Phi Xi.

An evening at the Sheldon Art Gallery is being planned by the members of the Alpha Xi Delta Mothers Club who will meet at the chapter house Tuesday evening. The tour will begin following a 7:30 o'clock dessert.

Mrs. Irwin Chesen will be hostess chairman for the 9:30 o'clock coffee, Monday morning, of the Lincoln Symphony Guild at the Hotel Cornhusker. A white elephant sale will be held.

The February meeting of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary will be held Monday afternoon following a 12:45 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. William F. Nye, 915 Fall Creek Rd.

A program, "Afternoon On Broadway", will be given by Ronald Hull of KUON-TV.

ABBY

sorry—but wrong grandmother

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is it permissible for a girl to wear her grandmother's diamond for an engagement ring? It is a perfect two-carat diamond in an old-fashioned setting. I would wear it just as it is so as not to detract from the sentimental value. My parents say that I may have it if I want it. The man I am going to marry is in the service, and his money could be used in other ways. Besides, I'm sure he could not afford to get me a ring to compare with my grandmother's. Would this be proper?

SENTIMENTAL
DEAR SENTIMENTAL: An engagement is a compact of hearts. The ring is from the man to his beloved to let the whole world in on it. Just an eensy-weensy diamond from your intended would have more "sentimental" value than grandma's perfect two-carat rock. If the diamond were HIS grandmother's, it would be fine. Too bad, the wrong grandmother had the rock.

ROCKS IN THE BOX
DEAR ROCKS: Don't accept any dates arranged by people you "hardly know." And inform those you do date that your money is "tied up" in trusts for your children. Many will retreat into the woodwork. Those who remain are "for real."

DEAR ABBY: You made such a fuss about the teacher who assigned her students the task of making a "family tree." You said it was an "invasion of privacy." You showed your hand, Abby. I'll wager that you have never written to a genealogical society requesting that they trace your family tree. Are you afraid of what they might find?

C. J. L.
DEAR C. J. L.: No, I'm afraid they might send me back a bunch of bananas.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 33 years old. I have two children. Last year my Opening lead—jack of diamonds.

The nature of the game is such that a player is bound to have many difficult decisions to make, and if he happens to be less than perfect occasionally, that is to be expected and is certainly forgivable.

But errors which do not involve faulty judgment, but which are the result of carelessness or thoughtlessness, are less forgivable because they reveal a certain amount of disrespect for the game. Many such mistakes occur when a player reacts spontaneously to a situation and does something which a moment of thought would have told him not to do.

South was in two hearts and West led the jack of diamonds. Instead of considering the course of play for the hand as a whole, South automatically played the queen from dummy, losing the finesse to the king.

Undoubtedly South's play would have been correct if his problem had been to win the maximum number of tricks possible in diamonds. The queen play was likely to produce two diamond tricks far more often than the ace play.

It turned out that the finesse cost South the contract. East won the queen with the king and found the best defense by returning a trump. West took the trump with the ace and returned a trump, won by declarer in dummy.

When South now played a club to the king, West took it with the ace, led another trump, and thus defeated the contract. South's losers proved to be a spade, a heart a diamond and three clubs.

Declarer would have made two hearts if he had realized that refusing the diamond finesse was practically certain to make the contract. By going up with the ace and leading a club at trick two he would have assured one club ruff in dummy, and this in turn would have led to making the contract.

South's eight tricks would have consisted of a spade, four hearts, a diamond, a club and a club ruff.

It pays to plan the play.

Club Activities

Meeting Friday evening were the eight candidates for the Beta Sigma Phi Queen, who will be introduced to the sorority members and their escorts at the group's annual Valentine Dance, to be held Saturday evening, Feb. 12, at the Black Coach Supper Club.

The Queen contestants, each selected by her own chapter, met with contest judges, Mrs. Nancy Childs, Thomas Gorham and Bob Johnson, who will choose the Queen on the basis of beauty, charm and personality.

The candidates and their chapters are Jeane Patten, Beta; Mary Rapetti, Zeta; Carol Swanson, Kappa; Jennie Layton, Lambda; Phyllis Nelson, Xi Alpha Delta; Marilyn Wendt, Phi Beta; Melody Arnison, Phi Gamma; and Pat Ikerd, Phi Xi.

An evening at the Sheldon Art Gallery is being planned by the members of the Alpha Xi Delta Mothers Club who will meet at the chapter house Tuesday evening. The tour will begin following a 7:30 o'clock dessert.

Mrs. Irwin Chesen will be hostess chairman for the 9:30 o'clock coffee, Monday morning, of the Lincoln Symphony Guild at the Hotel Cornhusker. A white elephant sale will be held.

The February meeting of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary will be held Monday afternoon following a 12:45 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. William F. Nye, 915 Fall Creek Rd.

A program, "Afternoon On Broadway", will be given by Ronald Hull of KUON-TV.

ABBY

sorry—but wrong grandmother

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is it permissible for a girl to wear her grandmother's diamond for an engagement ring? It is a perfect two-carat diamond in an old-fashioned setting. I would wear it just as it is so as not to detract from the sentimental value. My parents say that I may have it if I want it. The man I am going to marry is in the service, and his money could be used in other ways. Besides, I'm sure he could not afford to get me a ring to compare with my grandmother's. Would this be proper?

SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: An engagement is a compact of hearts. The ring is from the man to his beloved to let the whole world in on it. Just an eentsy-weentsy diamond from your intended would have more "sentimental" value than grandma's perfect two-carat rock. If the diamond were HIS grandmother's, it would be fine. Too bad, the wrong grandmother had the rock.

DEAR ABBY: You made such a fuss about the teacher who assigned her students the task of making a "family tree." You said it was an "invasion of privacy." You showed your hand, Abby. I'll wager that you have never written to a genealogical society requesting that they trace your family tree. Are you afraid of what they might find?

C. J. L.

DEAR C. J. L.: No, I'm afraid they might send me back a bunch of bananas.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 33 years old. I have two children. Last year my husband was killed on his job in an industrial accident. I was awarded a large sum of money (I sued). All the figures were in the newspaper, so the whole town knows my business. I do have some cash, but I put most of the money into trusts for the children's education and future. I have been besieged with phone calls from people who have an eligible man they want to fix me up with. I hardly know some of these people, and others never paid any attention to me before the news got out that I won my suit. I am lonesome and would like to marry again, but how can I tell who is "for real" and who is interested in me for my money?

ROCKS IN THE BOX

DEAR ROCKS: Don't accept any dates arranged by people you "hardly know." And inform those you do date that your money is "tied up" in trusts for your children. Many will retreat into the

DEAR ABBY: A co-worker of mine recently was married in Las Vegas. Weeks later she sent out an open invitation to their wedding reception addressed to "THE GANG" at the office. It was a small printed card saying the "reception" would be at the American Legion Hall on Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4. On the left hand corner of the card it said, "NO GIFTS." Then on the right hand corner it said, "MONEY TREE." Does this mean people are expected to bring something for the tree?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Yes. They'd prefer something in "currency" green. And if you go, you'll also be adding a little sap to the party.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead—jack of diamonds.

The nature of the game is such that a player is bound to have many difficult decisions to make, and if he happens to be less than perfect occasionally, that is to be expected and is certainly forgivable.

But errors which do not involve faulty judgment, but which are the result of carelessness or thoughtlessness, are less forgivable because they reveal a certain amount of disrespect for the game. Many such mistakes occur when a player reacts spontaneously to a situation and does something which a moment of thought would have told him not to do.

South was in two hearts and West led the jack of diamonds. Instead of considering the course of play for the hand as a whole, South automatically played the queen from dummy, losing the finesse to the king.

Undoubtedly South's play would have been correct if his problem had been to win the maximum number of tricks possible in diamonds. The queen play was likely to produce two diamond tricks far more often than the ace play.

It turned out that the finesse cost South the contract. East won the queen with the king and found the best defense by returning a trump. West took the trump with the ace and returned a trump, won by declarer in dummy.

When South now played a club to the king, West took it with the ace, led another trump, and thus defeated the contract. South's losers proved to be a spade, a heart a diamond and three clubs.

Declarer would have made two hearts if he had realized that refusing the diamond finesse was practically certain to make the contract. By going up with the ace and leading a club at trick two he would have assured one club ruff in dummy, and this in turn would have led to making the contract.

South's eight tricks would have consisted of a spade, four hearts, a diamond, a club and a club ruff.

It pays to plan the play.

Husker Cagers Meet OSU In First Crucial Road Test

... OU, OKLAHOMA CITY OTHER NEBRASKA FOES

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska's basketball team, protecting a 13-2 record and leading the Big Eight Conference, meets Oklahoma State tonight in the first game of the most crucial road trip the Huskers have made this year.

After meeting Oklahoma State tonight, Nebraska will face Oklahoma Monday night at Norman, then travel to Oklahoma City for a game with the high-flying Oklahoma City University Chiefs Tuesday.

The Cowboys, having a miserable season after winning the Big Eight title last year, showed signs of jelling last Monday night by pasting Missouri, 67-50, to break a 10-game losing streak.

Junior guard Bill Fisher, who had a one-point-per-game scoring average last year, paced the Oklahoma State win against the Tigers by hitting 18 points, 11 of them coming in a personal spree with the score tied 20-20.

The Cowboys' only returning starter, 6-3 Skip Iba, is probably Oklahoma State's finest player. Iba, coach Henry Iba's nephew, is a fine shooter and engineers Oklahoma State's ball-control game.

Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano is properly impressed with the Cowboys' perpetually sound defense and their apparent offensive progress.

"They're starting the jell," he says, "and they're always sound defensively."

The Huskers have always found OSU's ball-control

game to be tough. And says Cipriano, "I'm sure they'll play us differently than they do a lot of clubs."

In referring to Nebraska's use of fast-break basketball, Cipriano expects some trouble with Oklahoma State. "They always have been able to get back well defensively," he says.

Perhaps the key to a Husker victory at Oklahoma State will be Nebraska's multiple variations of the full-court press. According to Cipriano, "We've got to change the tempo of the game with the press."

Monday night's encounter with Oklahoma will be the third time this season the Huskers have played the Sooners. Nebraska has won both times, defeating OU, 86-78, at Lincoln in the last game the Huskers played before the semester break.

Both times Nebraska has built up large leads, then had them cut before the end of the game.

Tuesday night Nebraska travels to Oklahoma City to meet another fast-breaking team, the OCU Chiefs.

Oklahoma City currently has the third highest scoring average in the nation at 77.1 points per game, has two players averaging over 20 points a game and boasts the nation's leading rebounder.

Jerry Lee Wells, a 6-2 all-America candidate, leads the Chiefs in scoring with a 25.4 average, followed by Gary Gray, the other OCU guard, with a 22.6 mark.

James Ware, the Chiefs' 6-7 center and other All-America candidate, leads the nation in rebounding with a 19.6 average. Furthermore, Ware is the third highest scorer on the team with a 17.6 average.

Oklahoma City boasts a 16-3 record, but has averaged its losses to Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Memphis State.

The Chiefs most impressive win was a 106-89 pasting of fifth-ranked Chicago Loyola at Chicago earlier in the season.

The OSU game could be the toughest encounter of the trip, but says Cipriano, "We're interested in league games first."

Cipriano expects to start Grant Simmons and Stuart Lantz at guards, Tom Baack and Nate Branch at forwards and Willie Campbell at center.

Huskers Make Home Debut In Track Triangular Today

... OKLAHOMA, KANSAS STATE WILL TEST NU

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor
Oklahoma, early favorite to win the Big Eight indoor track crown this season, will test darkhorse Nebraska and upstart Kansas State in a triangular this afternoon at the NU Indoor Track.

Field events will get underway at 1:30 with the runners taking their marks at 2 o'clock. A Husker frosh-Dodge meet will be run off at the same time.

All three have athletes who could wind up with first place medals in the conference championships at Kansas City later this month. And some of these athletes will be competing against each other in head-to-head duels this afternoon.

In the 440, Kansas State will send defending indoor champion Don Payne against outdoor champion Bill Calhoun of Oklahoma. Nebraska's top threat here is sophomore Ron Lee.

Payne finished second to Calhoun in the Big Eight Outdoor last spring in Lincoln, but came back to win the crown in the National Federation meet a couple of weeks later.

Oklahoma's returning 600 champion, Lee Calhoun, will get a test from Nebraska's Dave Crook, who set a Nebraska record with a 1:10.6 at New Mexico a week ago.

Calhoun's winning time in the Big Eight meet a year ago was 1:11.2.

But the most personal of the personal duels this afternoon will come in the 60-yard dash where Nebraska's Charlie Greene goes against Oklahoma's Jim Jackson.

Jackson got out of the blocks a little quicker than Greene thought he should have in last year's Big Eight preliminaries and outran the Husker speed merchant to the tape.

Greene, however, came back to win in the finals with a :06.1 clocking and has run :05.9 already this season.

But this pair isn't likely to be alone when they cross the finish line.

Nebraska has Lynn Headley, an Olympic sprinter who might be the best in the Big Eight if it were not for teammate Greene.

And Kansas State has a sophomore, Ron Moody, who set the Big Eight freshman record last season with a :06.1.

Coach DeLoss Dodds at Kansas State also has another top sophomore in high hurdler Harold Wooten, who ran :07.3 last season for a Big Eight freshman record.

Nebraska's top high hurdler could also be a sophomore. Lonnie Sherlock will make his Husker varsity debut against Wooten today.

While several top athletes face severe tests against each other today, there are others who shouldn't have to exert much effort to win their specialties.

Nebraska's Jim Belzter, who tossed the 16-pound ball a record 55-1 1/4 last week at New Mexico for a Nebraska record, should have little trouble winning the shot put.

Oklahoma pole vaulter Jim Farrell, the Big Eight champ at 15-0, and Sooner sophomore high jumper Ron Tull, who is nearing the 7-foot mark in his specialty, should be able to get over their chief competition with ease today.

Entries for the meet:

Shot Put (1:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Ron Tull; Nebraska: Jim Belzter; Kansas State: Roger Shoemaker; Nebraska: Ron Tull.

Kneece Holds Top Spot In Hope Golf

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP) — Harold (Catfish) Kneece fired his third straight sub-par round of golf Friday to retain the lead in the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic, while Bill Casper Jr. bounded into the picture with a seven-under-par 65.

Kneece, with previous rounds of 68-68, shot a 69 for a 54-hole score of 205.

Casper, the 1965 Hope winner who started play under sunny skies six strokes behind Kneece, moved into a challenging position with 69-73-65 for 207.

Thirty-six holes remain to be played in the 90-hole tournament, which winds up Sunday.

A year ago, Casper had a score of 209 at this stage and was three strokes back of the lead.

In third place five shots behind Kneece was Doug Sanders, who had a 68 for 210. Grouped at 211 were Don Massengale, with a 70 Friday; Phil Rodgers, 68; and Al Besselink, 69.

Jack McGowan, whose 66 led in the first round, followed a second round 74 with a 73 for 213. McGowan, Bob Rule and R. H. Sikes were four strokes behind Kneece as the round began.

Sikes' 73 gave him 213 and Rule's 74 left him at 214.

Arnold Palmer had a 71 for 212 and a tie with four others. Ken Venturi had a 71 and was in the 215 bracket.

Kneece, from Aiken, S.C., had a tremendous opportunity to widen his lead, which was four strokes over the field when the round began.

He was four under par after nine holes, playing the Eldorado Country Club course, but he had two birdies and three bogeys on the final nine, including a 6 when he drove into a lake on the final hole.

Eldorado has par 36-36-72, the same as the other layouts in play. Bermuda Dunes, Indian Wells and La Quinta.

The 34-year-old Casper, along with Palmer and the other better-known pros, played Bermuda Dunes. Casper had seven birdies and a great afternoon on the putting greens. He said he missed several puts of 12 feet or under, for what would have been even more birdies. He missed only two greens in the round of 34-31.

Casper's 65 was the lowest of the tournament.

Jack McGowan, whose 66 led in the first round, followed a second round 74 with a 73 for 213. McGowan, Bob Rule and R. H. Sikes were four strokes behind Kneece as the round began.

Sikes' 73 gave him 213 and Rule's 74 left him at 214.

Hebron's First-Half Blitz Stops Tutors

Hebron — Hebron rolled up a 29-14 halftime lead then coasted to a 68-57 victory over Lincoln University High here Friday night.

Hebron, currently rated fourth in Class B, avenged their loss to the Tutors in the Class C finals of the state tournament last year. It was the Bears' tenth victory against just two defeats this season.

The Bears were led by Loren Peithman and Wayne Henning who had 18 points apiece. Hebron was deprived of the services of 6-5 star Dan Wilken who is benched for the rest of the season with a leg injury.

The Tutors played poorly throughout the first half, leaving them with a deficit which they were unable to make up after intermission despite outscoring the Bears, 43-39.

Hebron dominated the boards and had four players in double figures.

Uni got top performances once again from guards Jerry Schultz and Dennis Beckman. Schultz and Beckman's point productions were 25 and 20, respectively, but the Tutors lacked support from their center and forwards.

University High, rated No. 4 in Class C, is now 9-4.

A 39-point effort by Omaha University's Dennis Browne wasn't quite enough Friday night, as Nebraska Wesleyan edged the Indians, 82-81, at Ira J. Taylor gymnasium.

The Plainsmen held a four-point margin, 71-67, with 4:49 left in the game, but Omaha knotted the count, three minutes later, 73-71, after Wesleyan's attempt to stall out the game failed.

The NWU stall was foiled by intentional Omaha fouls and a couple of steals, enabling the Indians to take possession of the ball, and make good on a pair of field goals, one by Browne, the other by Charlie Myers.

Dwight Tietjen canned a fielder for the Plainsmen, breaking the tie, 75-73, and after another Indian free throw, Dick Hahn, a 6-3 Wesleyan sophomore, made good on his first of two charity tosses.

Hahn's second attempt missed, but Tietjen grabbed the rebound and returned it to Hahn, who dumped it in for a 78-74 Wesleyan lead.

The Omaha club wasn't ready to give up yet. With seven seconds remaining in the game, Bill Haas scored on a fielder, bringing the Indians back within one, 80-79.

But Skip Peterson made good on two free throws for Wesleyan two seconds later.

Browne's dunk shot a second before the gun sounded cut the margin to one again, but that's where the game ended.

The Plainsmen took a slim, 46-41, halftime lead despite Browne's 27-point first half effort. Tietjen and Hahn did the bulk of the scoring for the Plainsmen in that initial period, but got plenty of help from Bob Vasatka and Bill Nasl.

Browne, whose average prior to the Wesleyan contest was 14.9, handled most of the rebounding chores for the Indians, snagging 19 caroms. The Indians' 20-plus point-per-game scorer, Sam Singleton, did not play.

In all, Omaha held a strong rebounding edge over the Plainsmen, grabbing 64, compared to 45 for Wesleyan.

Tietjen finished the game with 25 points to lead Wesleyan, while Hahn added 15. Nasl and Vasatka each contributed 12.

John Armstrong got a dozen for Omaha, while Haas picked up 10 more.

Omaha held the lead on only twice in the contest, and both times it lasted only seconds.

The Indians took the opening tip, and took a 1-0 lead on a free throw by Jim Vincent, but the Plainsmen quickly took that away, 2-1, on Vasatka's fielder a few seconds later.

Omaha had it again, 47-46, overtaking Wesleyan, which had failed to score after the intermission, but again Vasatka took the Indian lead away with a field goal within seconds.

Pat Richards Has Lead In Gals' Scratch

Pat Richards moved into first place in the all-events scratch division of the Lincoln City Women's Bowling Tournament Friday night with a 1565, replacing Stella Morgan, whose 1527 held the lead for only one day.

Husker Cagers Meet OSU In First Crucial Road Test

... OU, OKLAHOMA CITY OTHER NEBRASKA FOES

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska's basketball team, protecting a 13-2 record and leading the Big Eight Conference, meets Oklahoma State tonight in the first game of the most crucial road trip the Huskers have made this year.

After meeting Oklahoma State tonight, Nebraska will face Oklahoma Monday night at Norman, then travel to Oklahoma City for a game with the high-flying Oklahoma City University Chiefs Tuesday.

The Cowboys, having a miserable season after winning the Big Eight title last year, showed signs of jelling last Monday night by pasting Missouri, 67-50, to break a 10-game losing streak.

Junior guard Bill Fisher, who had a one-point-per-game scoring average last year, paced the Oklahoma State win against the Tigers by hitting 18 points, 11 of them coming in a personal spree with the score tied 20-20.

The Cowboys' only returning starter, 6-3 Skip Iba, is probably Oklahoma State's finest player. Iba, coach Henry Iba's nephew, is a fine shooter and engineers Oklahoma State's ball-control game.

Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano is properly impressed with the Cowboys' perpetual sound defense and their apparent offensive progress. "They're starting the jell," he says, "and they're always sound defensively."

The Huskers have always found OSU's ball-control

game to be tough. And says Cipriano, "I'm sure they'll play us differently than they do a lot of clubs."

In referring to Nebraska's not attempt to play, use of fast-break basketball, Cipriano expects some trouble with Oklahoma State. "They always have been able to get back well defensively," he says.

Perhaps the key to a Husker victory at Oklahoma State will be Nebraska's multiple variations of the full-court press. According to Cipriano, "We've got to change the tempo of the game with the press."

Monday night's encounter with Oklahoma will be the third time this season the Huskers have played the Sooners. Nebraska has won both times, defeating OU, 86-78, at Lincoln in the last game the Huskers played before the semester break.

Both times Nebraska has built up large leads, then had them cut before the end of the game.

Tuesday night Nebraska travels to Oklahoma City to meet another fast-breaking team, the OCU Chiefs.

Oklahoma City currently has the third highest scoring average in the nation at 97.1 points per game, has two players averaging over 20 points a game and boasts the nation's leading rebounder.

Jerry Lee Wells, a 6-2 all-America candidate, leads the Chiefs in scoring with a 25.4 average, followed by Gary Gray, the other OCU guard, with a 22.6 mark.

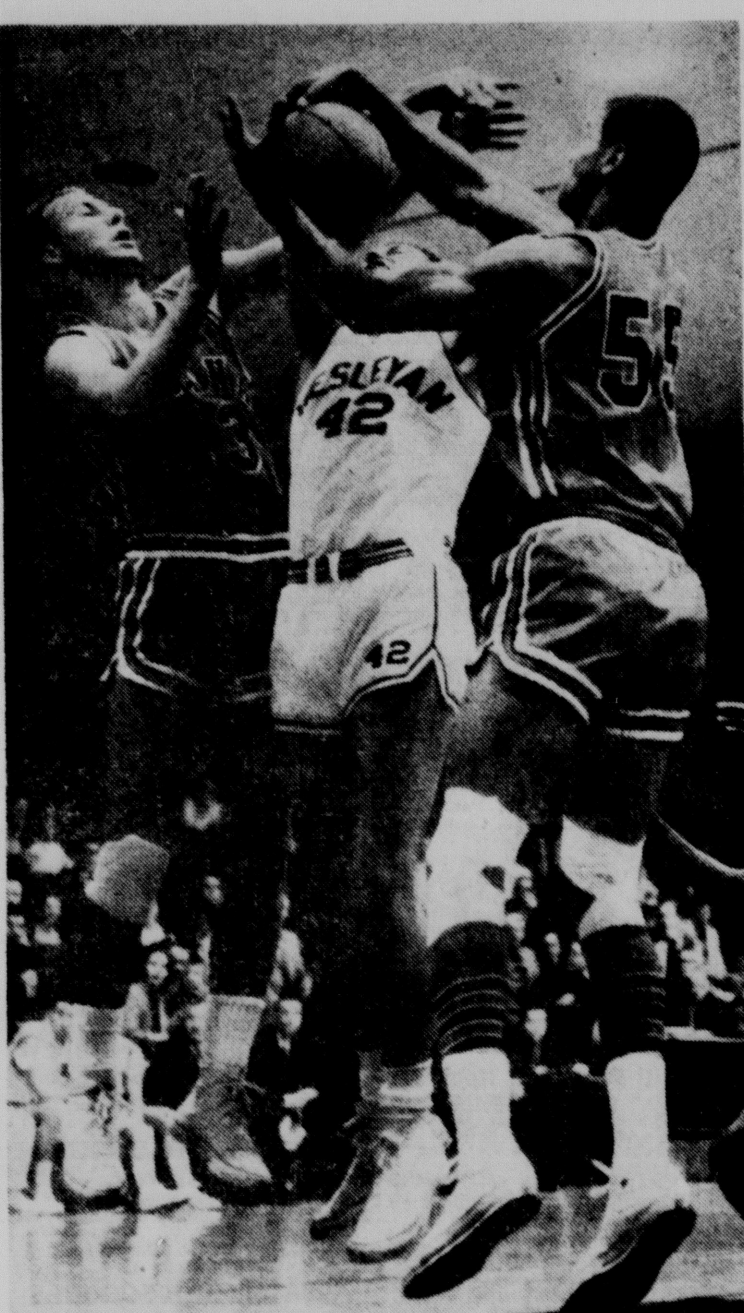

James Ware, the Chiefs' 6-7 center and other All-America candidate, leads the nation in rebounding with a 19.6 average. Furthermore, Ware is the third highest scorer on the team with a 17.6 average.

Oklahoma City boasts a 16-3 record, but has avenged its losses to Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Memphis State.

The Chiefs most impressive win was a 106-89 pasting of fifth-ranked Chicago Loyola at Chicago earlier in the season.

The OSU game could be the toughest encounter of the trip, but says Cipriano, "We're interested in league games first."

Cipriano expects to start Grant Simmons and Stuart Lantz at guards, Tom Baack and Nate Branch at forwards and Willie Campbell at center.

Huskers Make Home Debut In Track Triangular Today

... OKLAHOMA, KANSAS STATE WILL TEST NU

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Oklahoma, early favorite to win the Big Eight Indoor track crown this season, will test darkhorse Nebraska and upstart Kansas State in a triangular this afternoon at the NU Indoor Track.

Field events will get under way at 1:30 with the runners taking their marks at 2 o'clock. A Husker frosh-Doane meet will be run off at the same time.

All three have athletes who could wind up with first place medals in the conference championships at Kansas City later this month. And some of these athletes will be competing against each other in head-to-head duels this afternoon.

In the 440, Kansas State will send defending indoor champion Don Payne against outdoor champion Bill Calhoun of Oklahoma. Nebraska's top threat here is sophomore Ron Lee.

Payne finished second to Calhoun in the Big Eight Outdoor last spring in Lincoln, but came back to win the crown in the National Federation meet a couple of weeks later.

Oklahoma's returning 600 champion, Lee Calhoun, will get a test from Nebraska's Dave Crook, who set a Nebraska record with a 1:10.6 at New Mexico a week ago.

Calhoun's winning time in the Big Eight meet a year ago was 1:11.2.

But the most personal of the personal duels this afternoon will come in the 60-yard dash where Nebraska's Charlie Greene goes against Oklahoma's Jim Jackson.

Jackson got out of the blocks a little quicker than Greene thought he should have in last year's Big Eight preliminaries and outran the Husker speed merchant to the tape.

Greene, however, came back to win in the finals with a .06.1 clocking and has run .05.9 already this season.

But this pair isn't likely to be alone when they cross the finish line.

Nebraska has Lynn Headley, an Olympic sprinter who might be the best in the Big Eight if it were not for teammate Greene.

And Kansas State has a sophomore, Ron Moody, who set the Big Eight freshman record last season with a .06.1.

Coach DeLoss Dodds at Kansas State also has another top sophomore in high hurdler Harold Wooten, who ran .07.3 last season for a Big Eight freshman record.

Nebraska's top high hurdler could also be a sophomore. Lonnie Sherlock will make his Husker varsity debut against Wooten today.

While several top athletes face severe tests against each other today, there are others who shouldn't have to exert much effort to win their specialties.

Nebraska's Jim Beltzer, who tossed the 16-pound ball a record 55-1 1/4 last week at New Mexico for a Nebraska record, should have little trouble winning the shot put.

Oklahoma pole vaulter Jim Farrell, the Big Eight champ at 15-0, and Sooner sophomore high jumper Ron Tull, who is nearing the 7-foot mark in his specialty, should be able to get over their chief competition with ease today.

Entries for the meet:

Shot Put (1:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Byron Berline, Carl Pellegrini, Ed Hall; Kansas State: David Langford, Ron Heil; Nebraska: Jim Beltzer, Jerry Patton, Terry Thacker.

Pole Vault (1:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Jim Farrell, Mike Bailey, Jim Bahr; Kansas State: Roger Shoemaker; Nebraska: Ron Fecht.

High Jump (1:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Roger Brady, Ron Tull; Kansas State: Ken Winter, Dee Hawkins; Nebraska: Steve Krebs, Gary Neibauer.

Broad Jump (1:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Ken Faris, Jr., Don Ellis, Jim Jackson; Kansas State: Ron Moody; Nebraska: Andy Williams, Bill Selbe; Nebraska: Charlie Greene, Lynn Headley, Larry Liss.

60-Yard Dash (2:00 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Jim Jackson, Phil Anderson, John Smith, Frank Deramus, Jim Hamilton; Kansas State: Ron Moody; Don Payne; Andy Williams, Bill Selbe; Nebraska: Charlie Greene, Lynn Headley, Larry Liss.

100-Yard Dash (2:00 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Phil Oviatt; Kansas State: Charles Harper, Wes Dutton, Conrad Nightengale, Norm Yenkey; Nebraska: Peter Scott, Orlando Martinez.

200-Yard Dash (2:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Art Younger; Kansas State: Harold Wooten, Larry Fischer, Ron Harrison, Ron Holm; Nebraska: Ray Harvey, Lonnie Sherlock, Dave Kudron.

400-Yard Dash (2:50 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Jim Hamilton, Bill Reese, Lee Calhoun; Kansas State: Bill Reese, Kerry Fairchild, Don Payne; Nebraska: Jim Ryan, Dave Crook.

800-Yard Dash (3:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Jim Hamilton, Bill Reese, Lee Calhoun; Kansas State: Bill Reese, Kerry Fairchild, Don Payne; Nebraska: Jim Ryan, Dave Crook.

1,600-Yard Dash (4:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: James Shields; Kansas State: Charles Harper; Nebraska: Peter Scott, Joe Scott.

3,200-Yard Dash (5:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Gary Clinton, Lee Calhoun; Nebraska: Mike Michael, Lyn Morgan, Charles Harper, Wes Dutton; Nebraska: Les Helbuch, Norval Jones, Greg Hays.

5,000-Yard Dash (6:30 p.m.)—Oklahoma: Gary Clinton, Lee Calhoun; Nebraska: Mike Michael, Lyn Morgan, Charles Harper, Wes Dutton; Nebraska: Les Helbuch, Norval Jones, Greg Hays.

NOTE: 60-yard dash finals at 2:20 p.m.; High hurdle finals at 3:00 p.m.; Mile relay at 4:05 p.m.; Nebraska-Doane Freshman events will follow each varsity event.

Southeast Falls To Links, 61-55

Lincoln High finally calmed things down with seven points in the last two minutes while Southeast was getting none to earn a 61-55 intra-city basketball victory in Pershing Auditorium Friday night.

Both teams put on spurts all the way and just when the Links seemed to gain any sort of command, it would flutter away.

Southeast took a momentary 55-54 lead with 3:06 left in the contest, but Mike Diffenderfer hit a jumper at 2:18, Charlie Garrett brought the ball all the way down-court and sank an 18-footer, Chip Maly got a free throw for a 59-55 lead and Diffenderfer sank a pair of free ones for the final count.

The rest of the time it was helter-skelter.

The Links opened up a 10-point lead in the third quarter on Garrett and Jack Highstreet's jump-shooting and had the Knights down, 46-36 with 3:05 remaining in the third period.

Then it was the Knights' turn. Terry Culwell and Bill Guilford hit two shots apiece and Jim Deitemeyer got a jumper and a free throw while the Links' were getting only a basket to narrow the count to 48-47 with 33 seconds in the final period.

But Garrett popped another 18-footer and was fouled after the shot. His two free throws with 6:54 left appeared to give the Links command. Not so.

Steve Deurmyer stole the ball and raced for a layup, Deitemeyer ran home a short jump shot and Culwell hit one from eight feet to give Southeast a narrow 53-52 lead with 5:20 remaining.

Garrett hit another for the Link lead before John Cunningham's layin off of a rebound gave the Knights their final lead and final point.

The Knights opened the fray with a 6-2 lead but saw Lincoln High rebound into an 11-8 lead with 2:18 remaining in the first quarter. The lead changed hands five times in the second quarter until Highstreet got two goals to give the Links a 34-30 halftime margin.

Garrett led the scoring with 21, followed by Diffenderfer's 16 for Lincoln High. Deitemeyer was high man for the Knights with 17. Culwell added 14.

The win left the Links with a 5-5 record, the Knights at 4-8. Lincoln High will host North Platte tonight at 8 p.m. in Johnson Gym.

Fred Hare Won't Make Road Trip

Nebraska guard Fred Hare will not make the trip to Oklahoma with the Husker basketball team.

Hare aggravated a knee injury suffered earlier in the season, and Nebraska trainers decided it best if he did not travel.

Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano said the former Omaha Tech prep star may have to undergo surgery to correct the recurring injury.

Kneece Holds Top Spot In Hope Golf

Palm Springs, Calif. (P) — Harold (Catfish) Kneece fired his third straight sub-par round of golf Friday to retain the lead in the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic, while Bill Casper Jr. bounded into the picture with a seven-under-par 65.

Kneece, with previous rounds of 68-68, shot a 69 for a 54-hole score of 205.

Casper, the 1965 Hope winner who started play under sunny skies six strokes behind Kneece, moved into a challenging position with 69-73-65 for 207.

Thirty-six holes remain to be played in the 90-hole tournament, which winds up Sunday.

A year ago, Casper had a score of 209 at this stage and was three strokes back of the lead.

In third place five shots behind Kneece was Doug Sanders, who had a 68 for 210. Grouped at 211 were Don Massengale, with a 70 Friday; Phil Rodgers, 68; and Al Besselink, 69.

Arnold Palmer had a 71 for 212 and a tie with four others. Ken Venturi had a 71 and was in the 215 bracket.

Kneece, from Aiken, S.C., had a tremendous opportunity to widen his lead, which was four strokes over the field when the round began. He was four under par after nine holes, playing the Eldorado Country Club course, but he had two birdies and three bogeys on the final nine, including a

New York (AP)—Theodore C. Sorensen, former aide to President Kennedy, said Friday night the United States eventually will have to reevaluate its policy of blocking the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

He made his remarks before a meeting of some 250 college newspaper editors at the Overseas Press Club.

He told the group, here for a four-day conference on "The Journalist in World Affairs," that improved U.S.-Chinese communications were one of four major areas for foreign policy action.

Other areas, Sorensen said, were taking solid steps toward nuclear disarmament, the unification of Europe, and building an effective international security organization.

He suggested that present nuclear powers might be required "to extend an umbrella" to those nations not possessing such arms so the latter would not feel obligated to

Stocks Advance After Slow Start

New York (AP)—The stock market started slowly Friday but showed a burst of power toward the end which brought substantial gains to the averages.

Out of a mixed market in early trading there gradually appeared some high-quality leadership — American Telephone, Ford and, later, General Motors.

As the list moved upward the buying mood spread to a wider assortment of blue chips, producing a fairly solid advance.

Volume was the smallest of the week, however, totaling 7.5 million shares compared with 8.6 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.12 to 986.35 at the end of the first half hour.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.7 to 365.6 with industrials up 2.1, rails up 1.5 and utilities 0.7.

Of 142 issues traded, 77 rose and 48 fell. New highs for the 1965-66 total 81 and new lows 30.

Twelve of the 15 most active stocks rose and three fell.

Boeing was a conspicuous casualty among the volume leaders. It fell 4 to 168 in reaction to news of the crash of a Japanese airliner, a Boeing 747.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 3.1 million shares compared with 3.42 million Thursday.

Corporate bonds rose. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

Americanism

Liberty, as proclaimed by law and constitutions, can never have full meaning without the added ingredients of Fraternity and Brotherhood; without the spirit of friendliness and unselfishness . . . love for one's fellows. Those powerful qualifying attributes help spell out what Americanism is.

When one sees a family unit, parents and children, with Bibles in hand, attending church to worship as they please . . . then one is witnessing Liberty in its finest and most fullsome forms, for that, too, is American. Freedom of religious worship is equally important, along with economic freedom and freedom from oppression, in America. Then worship God as you please but be sure to worship . . . that is Americanism.
